OUR VISION

That Irish craft is recognised and valued worldwide for its excellence and innovation in design, making and presentation to market; that craft represents a significant part of the Irish economy; and that working in Irish craft provides a viable and attractive living.

OUR MISSION

To promote and stimulate the creative and commercial viability of the Irish craft sector, through the delivery of programmes targeted to deliver our vision.
Knit Stool
by Claire-Anne O'Brien, Future Makers Award Winner
In addition to its importance to our culture, our heritage and our national identity, Ireland’s dynamic craft sector makes a significant contribution to our economy, with those people working in craft and design generating local, sustainable employment throughout the island of Ireland. The Crafts Council of Ireland is committed to its role in championing the appropriate climate within which Irish craft can flourish and in promoting the craft and design sector on behalf of our member organisations and clients.

The designation of 2011 as Year of Craft by the Crafts Council of Ireland and Craft Northern Ireland saw a year-long celebration of craft across the island of Ireland and internationally. Over 2,000 makers participated in more than 800 craft events, more than one million people interacted with Irish craft throughout the year and by December 2011 the immediate impact of the initiative was reflected in the fact that awareness and appreciation of Irish craft was at an all-time high. We were privileged to have President Mary McAleese as Patron of Year of Craft 2011, and we were very grateful for the support we received from Enterprise Ireland and the Department of Jobs, Enterprise and Innovation in promoting the initiative.

The collective enthusiasm of clients, members and partner organisations ensured the real success of Year of Craft and confirmed its place as a very significant event in Ireland’s national creative calendar for 2011. The initiative demonstrated the success that can be achieved when partner organisations unite and work together in achieving a common goal. A lasting legacy from Year of Craft 2011 is the strong links we have forged with our partners, thus firmly embedding a consciousness of the value of craft at all levels across our society.

A critical element of our partner engagement was the inaugural Year of Craft event when we hosted a Craft Summit at Farmleigh, to discuss the potential of the Irish craft sector with policy makers from various Irish support agencies and government departments, and in some instances, to introduce those present to the valuable economic and job creation potential that craft offers to the country. This resulted in exciting and practical ideas being identified for job creation in, and support for, the craft sector in Ireland. A number of actions proposed at the Craft Summit were undertaken in 2011 and CCoI will continue to pursue these during 2012 and beyond.

- Exploring how to align supports for the craft sector between the enterprise agencies
- Analysing gaps in craft skills training provision, and agreeing with partners how best these can be met
- Developing closer links between heritage, arts and crafts in order to raise the profile and economic importance of the creative sector with a view to developing job opportunities
- Developing a closer relationship between design and craft

We were particularly delighted that the World Crafts Council – Europe accepted our invitation to host their Annual General Assembly in Dublin in June to mark Year of Craft 2011. This event took place in Dublin Castle in partnership with the Office of Public Works whose support for this event and others throughout 2011 was invaluable and very much appreciated. The General Assembly was attended by representatives of craft organisations across Europe and led to establishing important international contacts and links with our European counterparts, which we intend to develop in the coming years.

We are extremely grateful to our colleagues in Enterprise Ireland, and in the Department of Jobs, Enterprise and Innovation, who fund our work and support the role that our organisation plays in developing this important sector. I would like to thank Minister for Jobs, Enterprise and Innovation, Richard Bruton, TD and Minister for Small Enterprise, John Perry, TD for their support during the year.

In addition to sincerely thanking our members and clients for their enthusiastic involvement in our programmes, I would like to thank my fellow Board members and the team of the Crafts Council of Ireland for their work during 2011. Special thanks to our retiring Board members Loretta O’Brien, Peter Pollock and Christine Charleton, who showed huge commitment and contributed greatly to the Crafts Council of Ireland during their term on the Board.
I was delighted to welcome Dermott Rowan who joined the Board in January 2011 and Michael Hanley, Sonya Lennon and Derek McGarry who joined in June 2011. Each brings invaluable knowledge and experience to the direction of the organisation.

It is a great privilege to serve as Chairman of the Crafts Council of Ireland, working with all our Board members and staff in developing and promoting the Irish craft and design sector on behalf of Ireland’s craft makers.

Laura Magahy
Chairman
Across the length and breadth of the country, craft makers stood together to showcase Ireland’s creative and entrepreneurial talent in many imaginative ways, from acclaimed exhibitions to innovative pop-up shops to world class conferences and talks. Ireland’s heritage in craft and design cannot be denied and there is a pride, confidence and excellence in what we can create as a nation, which underpins Ireland’s determination to survive and thrive despite the current economic climate.

The upsurge in awareness that was demonstrated at retail level in the run up to Christmas showed that the Irish public want to buy Irish, buy local, and buy good quality crafted and designed products, as reflected in our consumer research at the end of the year. Appreciation and understanding of Irish craft and design has significantly increased and the Crafts Council of Ireland is committed to embedding that change for the good of the craft sector over the coming years.

Year of Craft 2011 coincided with the 40th anniversary of the Crafts Council of Ireland but the year was not about celebrating the organisation; it was about promoting and celebrating the vibrancy and talent of the craft sector in Ireland. The aim was to raise awareness of the important contribution that craft makes to the economy of Ireland and to promote opportunities for working in craft. This could not have been achieved without the incredible passion and enthusiasm from our clients, members and partners throughout Year of Craft 2011.

This annual report and our supplementary Year of Craft 2011 Report provide a flavour of the activities and events that were delivered. Very importantly all the activities were overlaid on our existing programmes and carried out in tandem with our current Strategic Plan 2010 – 2012, therefore ensuring that the legacy of Year of Craft 2011 will live on. Indeed the long-term benefits of the some of the partnerships developed during 2011 may not be immediately evident but they are sure to have an enduring legacy.

Details on each of our programmes throughout 2011 are set out below. However these only document the activities that the Crafts Council of Ireland has been involved in so it would be remiss of me not to mention that in addition to these programmes, there is excellent work, which is often unacknowledged, taking place in every city, town and village in the country every year, sustaining and growing Ireland’s craft sector.

MARKET DEVELOPMENT

The Market Development team is focused on creating commercial and reputation enhancing opportunities for makers who wish to sell their work directly or through galleries or retail shops. Our programmes are designed to help grow trade, consumer and collector demand for Irish craftwork in Ireland and internationally.

1 - COLLECTOR MARKET

Irish Craft Portfolio

The ‘Irish Craft Portfolio 2011’ publication was launched in March showcasing the work of 35 selected makers across a wide range of disciplines. These makers were selected by an international expert panel for the quality and execution of their work. Irish Craft Portfolio exists to encourage, identify and reward excellence in the making of fine craft by Irish makers producing work to an international exhibition standard.

The initiative led to a number of exhibitions during 2011. In Ireland, the Irish Craft Portfolio exhibition was opened on the 18th March in the National Craft Gallery by Yvonna Demczynska. A capsule show took place in Farmleigh Gallery, Phoenix Park from May to July and the inaugural Irish Craft Portfolio selling show which was opened by Gemma Tipton, Art Critic and Writer, took place in the Royal Hibernian Academy, Dublin in November. Irish Craft Portfolio was also the basis for the selection of makers for two exhibitions in the New Ashgate Gallery, UK; “Showcasing Irish Craft” in September and “Winter Contemporary Craft” in November.

Eight makers (including six from the Irish Craft Portfolio programme) were selected to exhibit at COLLECT, the annual fair for contemporary applied arts at London’s Saatchi Gallery, 6th – 9th May 2011. The selected makers were Derek Wilson, ceramicist; Róisín de Buitléar, glass artist; Marcus O’Mahony, ceramicist; Sara Flynn, ceramicist; Yaffe Mays, furniture makers; Nest Design, furniture makers; Karl Harron, glass artist and Jack Doherty, ceramicist. Participation at the fair was preceded by a presentation of Irish Craft Portfolio at the Irish Embassy in London. 15 makers (who were not showing at COLLECT) were awarded travel vouchers to attend the fair.

In 2011 it was decided to change the programme from a one-year to a two-year cycle in order to align better with makers’ needs and to broaden its reach and relevance. The new programme will be rolled out in 2012.

Craft Collections
The Crafts Council of Ireland is committed to raising the profile and reputation of makers. In this endeavour, CCoI has developed a strong partnership with the National Museum of Ireland to co-fund the purchase of Irish craft objects that have significance in the context of a National Collection as determined by a panel and the curators of the National Museum of Ireland. In 2011 the collection partners purchased work for the following collections: Ceramics and Glass: Frances Lambe, Róisín de Buitléar, Alison Kay, Marcus O’Mahony and Catherine Keenan; Textiles: Ceadogán Rugs; Furniture Collection: Roger Bennett, Emmet Kane and Zelouf+Bell; and Silver: Michael McCrory.

National Craft Gallery Exhibitions Programme
The National Craft Gallery saw a dramatic rise in visitor numbers in 2011, with Kilkenny figures reaching over 44,000 (an increase of over 25% on 2010), and with overall audience figures for Kilkenny, Touring, Capsule and International exhibitions, of over 159,000. Seventeen shows were produced and the work of 162 makers was represented. Work also began on development of a brand identity and website, as part of the strategic development of the National Craft Gallery as a cultural venue and visitor destination, with the support of Fáilte Ireland.

Jerwood Contemporary Makers
21st January 2011 - 8th March 2011
The Jerwood Contemporary Makers exhibition showcased work by a new generation of UK makers in a fresh and unexpected way. Selected by renowned iconoclastic practitioners Hans Stofer, Richard Slee and Freddie Robins, the exhibition investigated the notion of making, by bringing together a broad range of work from across craft and the visual arts.

Irish Craft Portfolio
18 March 2011 - 11 May 2011
The Irish Craft Portfolio 2011 exhibition in the National Craft Gallery was curated by Yvonna Demczynska of Flow Gallery in London and showed a range of work from CCoI’s Irish Craft Portfolio programme. Demczynska’s selection emphasised the links to nature and landscape present within much of the work, focusing on colours and forms that create a tranquil and contemplative environment.

Bruce Metcalf
20th May 2011 - 6th July 2011
This exhibition was a rare opportunity to experience a solo show by the iconic US jeweller, curator and critic of contemporary craft. In 2010 Metcalf co-authored the definitive ‘Makers - A History of American Studio Craft’ with Janet Koplos.
21st Century Icons
10th June 2011 – 28th July 2011
This exhibition saw established and emerging Irish jewelers and designers re-interpret the iconic forms of celtic neckpieces, torcs and lunulas for the 21st Century. Visitors had a unique opportunity to see neckpieces designed to convey contemporary Ireland to the world. The exhibition was curated by Ann Mulrooney.

Crafts Council of Ireland Jewellery & Goldsmithing Skills & Design Course
15th July 2011 - 28th July 2011
This graduate exhibition featured work by the students graduating from the Crafts Council of Ireland Jewellery & Goldsmithing Skills & Design Course. It featured a selection of work completed by the students using gold, silver and precious stones, offering the public an opportunity to meet with these emerging designers.

Modified Expression
6 August 2011 – 12 October 2011
Modified Expression invited an exciting mix of emerging and established artists whose work is inspired by the written word, or by the physical structure of the book form, to respond to the work of authors participating in the literature strand of the Kilkenny Arts Festival. Curated by Angela O’Kelly, the exhibition featured calligraphic text, deconstructed books, intricately hand-cut paper, and recycled and re-sculptured materials.

Modern Languages
21st October 2011 – 11 January 2012
Modern Languages explored the relationships between indigenous craft and contemporary, international creative practice in a time of globalisation. Five artists and designers, coming from Ireland, Scotland, Canada and Japan, were invited to respond to traditional Irish craft idioms. The exhibition featured work by Ciara Phillips, Nao Matsunaga, Laura Mays, Barbara Ridland and Deirdre Nelson and was a co-production between the National Craft Gallery and Galway Arts Festival.

Touring Programme
In 2011 the National Craft Gallery Touring Programme ensured that National Craft Gallery exhibitions went on to seven other national venues with an audience of almost 90,000 people. These were:

International and Capsule Exhibitions
National Craft Gallery at COLLECT London 2011
6th - 9th May 2011
The National Craft Gallery presented the work of eight makers at COLLECT 2011, Europe’s premier event for collectors of applied art.

SOFA Santa Fe
4th – 7th August 2011
The National Craft Gallery worked with Culture Ireland and Flow Gallery, London, to bring three makers to exhibit at SOFA Santa Fe 2012. Exhibitors were selected by Flow Gallery.

Future Makers
Showcase, RDS, Dublin: 23rd – 26th January 2011
This was a capsule of selected work from the Future Makers Awards and Grants programme 2010.

CIT Wandesford Quay Gallery, Cork: 14th October – 4th November 2011
This exhibition presented new work by 21 of the 24 students and recent graduates selected for the Crafts Council of Ireland Future Makers Awards and Grants programme in 2011.

2 - RETAIL CHANNELS
Showcase 2011
The 35th Showcase took place in the RDS, Dublin, 23rd – 26th January. The annual trade show is the largest international fair in Ireland and has become an important means of developing market opportunities for Irish craft businesses. The 2011 event attracted 4,927 buyers from over 17 countries including North America, continental Europe and Japan throughout the four days and the energy of the event showed that despite the recession, Ireland was definitely open for business.

For the second year running Showcase presented “Creative Island” – a space dedicated to beautifully crafted products Imagined, Designed and Made in Ireland. The 75 craftspeople in Creative Island were chosen by an independent jury for their creativity, innovation and craftsmanship and the area was supported with a Creative Island catalogue featuring a selection of work by the makers.
Several County & City Enterprise Boards participated in Showcase by supporting many first-time exhibitors at special County Enterprise Stands.

Free retail seminars in development, merchandising and trends forecasting were presented. Speakers included Niall O’Farrell, Dragon’s Den investor, who has previously invested in two Showcase exhibitors, Button & Co Goldsmiths and Karen Morgan Ceramics. The schedule of events also included several networking opportunities allowing exhibitors and buyers to mingle in a relaxed atmosphere. A seminar presenting a trends forecast, specially commissioned for Showcase, was also delivered to provide inspiration for retailers interested in interiors and fashion on what to look out for in 2011 and was supported with a dedicated trends display area.

Showcase included an exciting Awards Programme. The Craftsmanship Award went to Woolcore and the Creative Island Award went to Susannagh Grogan Designs. Solvar received the Exporter of the Year award. The Top 50 New Product Awards 2011 were chosen by an independent panel of retailers and were displayed in a specially designed area in the centre of the Main Hall. Winners in the four categories were Tom Callery Ceramics – Craft and Gift; Edel MacBride – Fashion, Knitwear and Accessories; Klickity Design – Tabletop and Interiors; and By Yvonne – Jewellery. By Yvonne also scooped the overall Top New Product Award.

June: Celebrating Irish Ceramics
CCoI celebrated Ireland’s ceramics in June with the launch of National Ceramics Month and encouraged Irish people and summer visitors to take the time to experience the beautiful work of Ireland’s talented ceramicists and to recognise the cultural and economic contribution of ceramic artisans and designers all over Ireland. The Promoting Irish Ceramics campaign was rolled out to 46 stores nationally, including Arnotts, House of Fraser, Meadows and Byrne amongst many others, with all stockists promoted through www.giveirishcraft.com.

The campaign included several exciting and high profile events such as an exhibition at Kilkenny Shop, Dublin featuring both everyday functional-ware and sculptural decorative objects by 10 leading ceramicists; Bloom in the Park where ceramics formed the centrepiece of ‘The Irish Craft Garden’ and exhibitions at Farmleigh which featured ceramic design such as Irish Craft Portfolio and Ceramics Ireland’s exhibition transFORM.

September: Celebrating Ireland’s Designer Makers
The Royal College of Physicians of Ireland played host to a pop-up lunch in September to celebrate and showcase contemporary Irish design to key Irish media. This once-off dining experience took place to launch our “Celebrating Ireland’s Designer Makers” campaign which highlighted beautiful craft products designed and made in Ireland and the talented people behind them. The campaign focused on furniture, interiors, fashion and accessories and was promoted in 60 retail outlets around Ireland, in makers studios and through the www.giveirishcraft.com website.

The aim of the campaign was to give Irish designers a voice, to help their remarkable work to be seen and appreciated and bought by consumers in Ireland and overseas. Reflecting the diversity of contemporary Irish craft and design, the makers featured in the campaign included Noel Whelan Furniture Design, Cushendale Woollen Mills, Jerpoint Glass, Ana Faye leather bags and Edmund McNulty knitwear. As part of the campaign, CCoI supported a group of designers in exhibiting at TENT London during the London Design Festival.

Consumer Campaigns
As part of Year of Craft 2011, the Market Development team delivered a number of consumer campaigns in conjunction with retailers of Irish craft throughout the country. The objective of these campaigns was to grow understanding of disciplines, awareness of individual maker brands and sales of Irish craft, and the number of retailers taking part in our campaigns grew throughout 2011. The campaigns were supported through the dedicated website www.giveirishcraft.com which showcases a range of gift ideas from both established names and emerging businesses. The site also features a directory of craft stockists throughout the country.
November: Celebrating Ireland’s Jewellery Makers
CCol’s third consumer campaign focused on jewellery and was launched at Dublin Airport with a unique Irish jewellery exhibition at Terminal 2 (T2) in collaboration with the Dublin Airport Authority and House of Ireland. Showcasing Irish jewellery design to the hundreds of thousands of holiday travellers passing through the busy hub over the Christmas period, the exhibition featured 16 of Ireland’s top jewellery designer-makers and reflected the diversity of contemporary Irish design. The makers held jewellery-making demonstrations, allowing passengers to appreciate the craftsmanship behind the pieces on display.

The jewellery designers featured at the T2 exhibition included well established jewellers such as Alan Ardiff, Angela O’Kelly, Rachel Swan, Inga Reed, Geraldine Murphy and Filip Vanas and work was available to purchase at the House of Ireland shop in T2. Other craft retailers throughout the country also participated in the campaign. A selection of work from the T2 exhibition subsequently travelled to Munich in Germany to appear at a major international trade fair, Inhorghenta, in Munich in February 2012.

December: Christmas Campaign promoting Irish craft
In the lead up to the busy Christmas period, CCol once again promoted Irish craft as an ideal Christmas gift. We asked shoppers to be extra conscious of supporting Irish makers and no matter how small, to make at least one Irish craft purchase. Almost 120 Irish retail shops took part in supporting our Christmas campaign, an increase of over 100% on the previous year. More than 300 Irish designers... and craft makers were represented through in-store point-of-sale material in retail outlets throughout Ireland, combined with an advertising, poster and online campaign. Consumers were able to easily identify genuine Irish craft through the “Imagined, Designed and Made in Ireland” symbol on in-store displays at participating retailers.

Curated Craft

CCol launched the ‘Curated Craft’ initiative to encourage, support and promote individuals and groups in developing innovative retailing projects to mark and celebrate Year of Craft 2011. Applicants were assessed on the basis of their business plan for a new and innovative channel to consumers, or a new way of approaching an existing channel while not conflicting with existing craft retail. CCol offered selected projects a small level of financial assistance, advice, support and promotion. Successful projects included:

- Makers & Brothers – web site and pop up
- The Irish Design Shop – pop up and exhibition
- Westport House Craft Fair
- The Potters Market – at Galway Arts Festival

Regional Craft Outlets

The Crafts Council of Ireland continued to work with the regional craft outlets including CORE Crafted Design, Louth Craftmark, Leitrim Design House, Cahir Craft Granary and An Clachán, to encourage ideas and information sharing to grow sales and visibility of Irish craft. Additionally, the five regional outlets were provided with point of sale materials and were financially supported for local marketing initiatives, such as local radio campaigns, local press, directional signage, public relations and promotional events.

3 - EXPORT MARKET

International Fair Fund

As part of the Crafts Council of Ireland export strategy, we launched an International Fair Fund in 2011. This fund was developed to assist makers in reaching key export markets through trade and consumer fairs during 2011 and provided match funding to attend trade fairs abroad. This initiative enabled 15 makers selected through an application process to reach 21 consumer and trade events across five countries. Based on the success of this initiative and feedback from the participants, CCol intends to further develop this initiative in 2012.

TENT, London

Coinciding with our consumer campaign celebrating Ireland’s designer makers in September, CCol supported 12 of the country’s top designers in exhibiting at TENT London, a prestigious, cutting-edge and progressive trade exhibition during the London Design Festival. TENT featured over 200 international exhibitors showing the very latest in contemporary interior products - furniture, lighting, ceramics, textiles, materials and accessories. Exhibiting under the name “Design Island – the Cream of Irish Design”, the group of Irish craftspeople at TENT included Shane Holland Design Workshops, Stephen O’Brien Furniture, Dunleavy Bespoke and textile designer Sinéad Mitchell. With over 19,000 international visitors from 44 different countries during the four days, TENT provided the participating Irish craftspeople with a unique opportunity to promote their work to a discerning international audience.

4 - DIRECT SELLING
As part of Year of Craft 2011, the Crafts Council of Ireland created dedicated craft areas at four national events. Two events were large consumer shows, where the Crafts Council of Ireland developed craft villages or showcases incorporating craft retail spaces, workshops and demonstrations. The other two events were existing craft or design events, and the Crafts Council of Ireland created display or exhibition spaces highlighting and promoting Irish craftspeople.

Bloom 2011 – Ireland’s Largest Garden Festival, 2nd – 6th June, Phoenix Park, Dublin
The Irish Craft Showcase at Bloom was created around the Irish Craft Garden, designed by award winning garden designer Fiann O’Nualainn, featuring over 70 pieces from 31 makers. 20 craft exhibitors took part in the retail area, throughout the five days of the event which saw almost 90,000 visitors.

Tall Ships Race, Waterford, 30th June – 2nd July, Waterford City
CCol developed an Irish Craft Village in the heart of the Tall Ships Race Festival in Waterford. It included 32 craft retail stands, seven workshop tents with free workshops for children, craft demonstrations and a craft installation.

CCol worked closely with craftspeople based in Kite Design Studios in Waterford regarding demonstrations and Shaws Department Store, Waterford, featured a craft window display for the event.

Interior Design and Art Fair, 13th – 15th May, RDS, Dublin
CCol styled an entire room at the Interior Design and Art Fair, using work from craftspeople exhibiting at the event, and focusing on excellence.

National Crafts & Design Fair, 4th – 8th December, RDS, Dublin
As one of the key consumer craft events in the run up to Christmas, the National Crafts & Design Fair plays an important role for both consumers and craftspeople. In 2011 CCol developed an exhibition/display area at the centre of the show, highlighting the work from over 200 registered craftspeople. This initiative was accompanied by a gift guide, focused on highlighting craft gift ideas to consumers.

Irish Craft Tourism
CCol and Fáilte Ireland conducted a national audit of 130 studios for inclusion in the “Craft Studio Experience” pages on www.discoverireland.com. Approved studios are those who offer a quality craft experience to local and non-local visitors. They comprise craft studios open to visitors on a full-time basis and craft galleries and retail spaces offering visitors the opportunity to meet or interact with the maker. This scheme will launch in late 2012.
5 - ENTERPRISE DEVELOPMENT
Both the Market Development team and the Enterprise Development team work closely on enterprise development initiatives.

Continuing Professional Development
Training & Workshops
In 2011 this series of workshops for developing craftspeople and delivered in their own areas has increased the accessibility of key enterprise business and design skills to registered craft businesses. Workshops were offered in Cork, Dublin, Limerick and Donegal, with 120 businesses participating. The workshops were run during spring and autumn and focused on the following business areas:
- Branding and packaging your craft product
- Developing retailer relationships
- Advanced sales techniques for craft
- Business acumen & craft sales
- Photographing craft work

CCoI’s Continued Professional Development (CPD) Fund, which was established in 2010, continued in 2011 and total spend on the fund was €31,147. The CPD Fund was set up to ensure that makers have access to suitable professional development of their craft and provides assistance to participate in workshops, training courses, master classes, conferences, symposiums etc. or to research trade events/fairs.

Building Crafts Enterprise Programme
Making it in Business (2011 – 2012)
In 2011 thirteen businesses across a wide variety of disciplines were offered a place on this highly competitive programme. The objective of the programme is to optimise sales in the Retail and Collector market through a concentration on Business Development and Social Networking as a development and sales platform. The first phase of the programme delivered in autumn 2011 concentrated on branding and packaging product, social media, marketing and business planning.

The Mentoring Programme
During 2011 there were 56 craft businesses that directly benefited from this initiative. The Mentoring Programme provides craft businesses with tailored professional development support in design, production, business, marketing and branding. This takes place through one to one mentoring sessions (up to five sessions awarded) with key craft business people to help develop potential in both the Collector and Retail market. Through 2011 and beyond the primary concentration has been on design, product development, production capacity, and optimisation of social media as a craft development tool.

Showcase Creative Island Mentoring
Developed as a new initiative in 2010, this comprised a series of workshops and mentoring interventions specific to agreed targeted clients. It has been seen as proving successful in assisting Creative Island participants to display their full potential at Showcase 2011. The key elements of this initiative include Product Development, Merchandising, Branding and PR, Business Acumen and Optimisation of Social Media.
EDUCATION, TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT

During the year a clear focus was given to the development of some critical work areas, including consultation and consolidation of solutions relating to accreditation, curriculum policy development for the CRAFTed programme in primary schools and a diverse range of education outreach activities to assist in raising the awareness of craft during Year of Craft 2011.

1 - FIRST LEVEL
The CRAFTed: Learning Skills for Life Primary Schools Programme 2010 - 2011, in partnership with six education centres, completed all craft projects in schools by May 2011. The 2010-2011 programme culminated with the six individual Educations Centres holding exhibitions to showcase the creative process facilitated by the programme, and the outstanding quality of the final pieces created by the children. All the children involved were invited to visit the events to review and respond to the craftwork.

CRAFTed 2010 - 2011 took place in 47 schools and involved 47 craftspeople, 50 teachers and 1,410 children. Feedback from craftspeople, teachers, and Education Centre Directors emphasised the success of the pilot programme. Based on the positive evaluation, the CCoI Education Team devised a proposal to further extend the programme into a nationwide programme for the academic year 2011 - 2012.

The CRAFTed Programme is based on developing good collaborative practice between craftspeople and teachers. It focuses on how craft and design skills support integrated learning methodologies, with an emphasis on underpinning numeracy and literacy skills.

CRAFTed 2011 - 2012 is delivered in partnership with all 21 full-time Education Centres in Ireland. The programme is taking place in 128 schools nationwide, involving 135 teachers, 98 trained craftspeople and circa 3,800 children.

2 - SECOND LEVEL
Creative Crafts Skills CPD Training for 2nd Level
A pilot project in partnership with the Professional Development Service for Teachers (PDST) took place in second level schools in six regions around Ireland. The project, which commenced in February 2011, provided training for teachers and students in specific craft strands. Outcomes and learning from the six projects were disseminated to a wider group of second level teachers through a series of workshops in autumn 2011.

3 - THIRD LEVEL
During 2011, CCoI part funded the Irish Ceramics in Education (ICE) Lecture Series. ICE is a collaborative initiative between the Crafts Council of Ireland and the Schools of Art and Design in Belfast, Galway, Limerick, Dublin, Kilkenny and Cork which aims to facilitate access to international expertise in a range of craft disciplines through a series of public lectures, demonstrations and masterclasses. Artists selected must be practicing contemporary artists with an international reputation and proven exhibition profile, to be exceptional in their... field, and have a broad appeal. In 2011 lectures were delivered by Glenn Adamson, Dublin; Peter Ting, Cork; Barnaby Barford, Limerick; Josie Walters, Kilkenny; and Clare Curneen and Andrew Livingstone, Galway.

Future Makers

Future Makers represents a significant investment by the Crafts Council of Ireland in the future development of the next generation of makers in Ireland. Worth €30,000, the Future Makers Awards and Grants provide assistance in a range of areas including further training, research and development, studio set-up and exhibition assistance. Awards are assessed on the basis of creativity, innovation, skill and craftsmanship, and are intended to reward and benchmark excellence. Recipients of support through the Future Makers Awards & Grants are listed below.

In 2011 the Future Makers Student Award winner, who received €2,500, was Muireann Walshe, a metal design student at NCAD and the Future Makers Special Judges Award winner, who received €1,000 was Theresa Burger, a jewellery student at NCAD.

Future Makers Student Grants were awarded to students from the National College of Art & Design (NCAD), Limerick School of Art and Design, the Crafts Council of Ireland Jewellery & Goldsmithing Skills & Design Course and to an Irish student studying abroad at Rochester IT.

Materials Grants were awarded to Anna West (Metalwork), Eimear O’Connor (Glass), Miriam Wade (Metalwork), Muireann Walshe (Metalwork), Ruth Power (Ceramics), Theresa Burger (Jewellery) and Daniela Cardillo (Jewellery).

Networking Grants were awarded to Claire O’Sullivan (Fashion Design) and Karen Donnellan (Glass).

Residency and Training Grants were awarded to Charlene McFarland (Glass), Natasha Rollinson (Jewellery) and Yvonne Ross (Jewellery).

Future Makers Practitioner Grants were awarded to successful applicants to assist them in showcasing their work at international fairs, to undertake specialised training and to purchase equipment to help them in the development of studio space.

The Future Makers Practitioner Award winner, who received €5,000, was Claire-Anne O’Brien (Textiles/Knitting).

The Future Maker Special Judges Award winner, who received €1,300 was Michelle Kinsella (Textiles/Fashion).

Bridget O’Gorman (Multi-disciplinary) received a Special Commendation.

Practitioner Grants were awarded to Claire McAlister (Jewellery), Filip Vanas (Jewellery), Lisa Ryder (Textiles), Serena O’Neill (Textiles), Fergal Costello (Furniture Making), Laura McNamara (Ceramics), Samantha Hamilton (Metalwork/Jewellery Design), Bridget O’Gorman

Muireann Walshe, Future Makers Student Award Winner
Future Makers is supported through a dedicated website www.futuremakers.ie which is developed and enhanced to make it a valuable resource for students and recent graduates. The website provides ongoing information on upcoming opportunities such as seminars, masterclasses, competitions, grants and exhibitions.

Coinciding with the announcement of the Future Makers recipients, the winner of the House and Home/Crafts Council of Ireland Student Design Award was also announced. Tom Sweeney, a student of GMIT Letterfrack, was the overall winner of the award and received a cheque for €1,000, a trip to a design fair and a contemporary trophy designed by Rachel McKnight of Rachel MCK.

Future Makers Exhibition at CIT Wandesford Quay
Work by the recipients of the Crafts Council of Ireland’s Future Makers 2011 Awards and Grants was showcased at an exhibition in the CIT Wandesford Quay Gallery in Cork during October and November 2011. The exhibition was hosted in partnership with CIT Crawford College of Art and Design as part of Year of Craft 2011 activities. Featuring work by over 20 makers, the exhibition featured cutting edge designs from furniture and tableware to fashion and jewellery. As part of the exhibition, a ‘Life in the Craft Lane’ Seminar took place on 3rd November, Daniel Charny, curator of the Power of Making at the Victoria and Albert Museum in London was the keynote speaker. Presentations by previous Future Makers Grants and Awards recipients highlighted their career paths to date.

4 - EVENTS AND PROJECTS MARKING YEAR OF CRAFT 2011
In October 2011, CCoI launched a new digital resource to support learning through and about craft for children of all ages nationally. The platform www.learncraftdesign.com provides information for teachers at primary, second and third level, and for craftspeople delivering creative education programmes, reflecting CCoI’s commitment to ensuring that children and educators have ready access to craft based skills and expertise.

The launch of Learn Craft Design, which took place during the Baboró International Arts Festival for Children, was a significant development in craft education, providing easy access to a range of lesson plans, design concepts, a searchable database of craftspeople, image galleries and information about the core education programmes delivered by the Crafts Council of Ireland.

Year of Craft 2011 Public Conference
To coincide with the General Assembly of the World Crafts Council – Europe in Dublin in June 2011, CCoI organised and hosted a public conference as one of the key public events for Year of Craft 2011. Craft Conscious: Re-shaping Global Futures in the Innovation Age took place on 9th June in Dublin Castle and was attended by over 280 people from Ireland and across Europe. The Crafts Council of Ireland was honoured to have President Mary McAleese, Patron of Year of Craft 2011, address the conference.

The conference agenda included many celebrated international speakers and was facilitated by journalist and writer Fintan O’Toole. Following a keynote address from Edmund de Waal, ceramic artist and author, presentations were delivered by Edna dos Santos-Duisenberg, Chief - Creative Economies and Industries Programme at the United Nations; Brian Keaney of Tonfisk Design; Leonardo Bonanni, a world leader in sustainable design of products and supply chains; and Finbarr Bradley, economist and lecturer.

The evening before the conference, Edmund de Waal made his first appearance in Ireland since his best selling book ‘The Hare with Amber Eyes’ was published, with a sold-out public reading and interview.

Craftitecture
In June 2011 the Crafts Council of Ireland and the Irish Architecture Foundation announced the winners of Craftitecture, a competition organised by the Crafts Council of Ireland and the Irish Architecture Foundation, in association with the Electric Picnic, Greencrafts and Cultivate. The competition was to design a pavilion for Electric Picnic 2011 to celebrate and highlight Year of Craft 2011.
The winning team was Bucholz McEvoy Architects and Jim Horgan, master boat builder with the Galway School of Boat Building. Their innovative design featured a dynamic space constructed using the form of currachs, creating a unique and engaging performance space. “Cruth Curach” hosted several events during Electric Picnic in September, and subsequently toured to Open House Dublin and the University of Limerick campus later in the year.

5 - OTHER INITIATIVES
EU Leonardo Mobility Programme
In June 2009 the Crafts Council of Ireland was awarded Leonardo Mobility funding through Léargas. This funding enabled CCoI clients to avail of fully funded work placements in Norway. This was a partnership between the Crafts Council of Ireland and Norske Kunsthandverke. In 2010 placements were awarded to Sinead Mitchell, Tiernan Roe and Anke Eckardt. The programme was completed in 2011.

RDS National Crafts Competition supported by the Crafts Council of Ireland
In 2011 the RDS National Crafts Competition supported by the Crafts Council of Ireland awarded a prize fund of €28,000 to some of Ireland’s most talented and promising craft makers. The competition’s 20 categories were adjudicated by an independent international panel of judges selected by the RDS.

Major awards in 2011 included the RDS Award of Excellence which went to glass artist Karl Harron and the RDS New Entrants’ Prize which went to felt artist Kate Ramsey. The Crafts Council of Ireland’s Purchase Award was shared between Una Burke, Mark Campden, Catherine Keenan, Elvie Miller, Michael Ray and Mary Shields.

6 - EDUCATION AND OUTREACH
Throughout 2011 the Education and Outreach team continued to design, coordinate and deliver a dynamic and engaging programme of events to complement the annual exhibitions programme at the National Craft Gallery. As well as organising events and activities to support each of the on-site exhibitions in Kilkenny, the team was also actively involved in delivering many off-site initiatives.

The varied programme of activity included gallery tours, artists and curators’ talks, seminars, children’s workshops, public engagement events, continued professional development and the production of education resource materials. Following the positive reaction to the monthly late night openings at the National Craft Gallery, which were initiated in 2010, informal ‘Late Date’ events continued throughout 2011. A number of applied studio talks with National Craft Gallery makers in support of the National Craft Gallery exhibitions were also held.

The Education & Outreach team was also actively involved in the preparation of materials for the Learn Craft Design website, which included “Take a Closer Look”, a new second level career pack.

The information below illustrates the wide-ranging activities coordinated during the year. Further information on Education and Outreach initiatives in 2011 is available in the Year of Craft 2011 Report.

Craft Workshops at Public Events
The Education & Outreach team coordinated a series of free workshops for children at large-scale public events, introducing an additional and exciting activity element to the programming of those events. Highlight events include the following:

Big Day Out, March: Irish craft was included in Saint Patrick’s Festival for the first time in 2011 with over 300 children participating in CCol’s free workshops across four disciplines and over 700 members of the public involved in the ‘Flags of Intention’ installation in Merrion Square, Dublin, on Sunday 20th March.

Bloom, June: CCol ran an education space at the centre of the Irish Craft Showcase which included the Irish Craft Garden designed by award winning garden designer Fiann O’Nualáin. Using the Irish Craft Garden as a stimulus, 430 children participated in the free craft workshops. Visitors also had the opportunity to interact with members of the craft guilds who were giving demonstrations and to learn more about skills and craftsmanship.

Tall Ships Race, Waterford, July: As part of the Irish Craft Village, the Education and Outreach team set up seven workshop tents with free workshops for children, craft demonstrations and an installation. An estimated 2,400 children were actively involved in craft through a series of free workshops over the three days.

Programming Partnerships
Education and Outreach also developed a number of programming partnerships with other national cultural organisations as part of the National Craft Gallery’s audience development strategy for 2011. Crafternoon Tea was a series of craft workshops for active retirement groups in Kilkenny in partnership with the Bealtaine Festival celebrating creativity in older age. A public engagement and workshop programme also took place for National Drawing Day in partnership with the National Gallery of Ireland. This was preceded with ‘Keep Sketch’, the first week-long residency of an artist at the National Craft Gallery with textile artist Mick Minogue, which included daily workshops with the artist.

A strong emphasis on public engagement resulted in Castle Yard being once again a hive of activity in August during Kilkenny Arts Festival. A three-day Paper Craft Laboratory with 300 children was facilitated by artists at the National Craft Gallery and Rachel Hazel, one of the artists exhibiting in Modified Expression was onsite for three days of the festival engaging in paper art with families, based on the Kilkenny Census. CCol also participated in the Rhythm and Roots festival programme, hosting a tour of the Irish Craft Portfolio and a musical performance in the gallery.

For the second year, the National Craft Gallery participated in the national Culture Night initiative, in partnership with Kilkenny Arts Office and Temple Bar Cultural Trust. This event saw the National Craft Gallery transform into a cultural hub for Crafted Cabaret, an eclectic and eccentric mix of music, performance and making. The gallery welcomed over 600 visitors who enjoyed guided tours of the Modified Expressions exhibition, paper-making workshops along with the musical performances late into the night.

In partnership with Dublin Fringe Festival the Education & Outreach team coordinated The Sock Exchange with artist Jonnet Middleton. This five day public engagement craft project saw 500 visitors and received significant media coverage as part of the festival programme.

As part of the National Design Week programme an illustrated talk and workshop was hosted at the National Craft Gallery with textile artist Deirdre Nelson. The Education and Outreach team also supported ‘TALKShop’, a series of presentations by designer makers at The Malthouse Design Centre in Dublin.

CCoI also partnered with the National College of Art & Design on a number of initiatives including “Expanding the Decorative”, a talk with iconic jeweller Bruce Metcalf which was attended by NCAD students and the public.

Intern and Volunteer Programme
Delivering the extensive programme of activity during Year of Craft 2011 would not have been possible without the enthusiasm and involvement of the many interns and volunteers who supported the Education and Outreach team. Having developed an intern and volunteer policy and programme for CCoI in 2010, the links established with third level colleges proved invaluable in coordinating teams of volunteers for everything from craft workshops at public events to onsite tradeshow support at Showcase.

Resource Materials
Education and Outreach developed a number of resources such as a DVD of interviews with Irish Craft Portfolio makers to coincide with the exhibition. These were also presented as a learning resource on CCoI web platforms and National Craft Gallery social media forums. A number of audio podcasts of curator masterclasses were also produced during the year and the interpretive area in the National Craft Gallery was also used throughout 2011.

7 - SKILLS TRAINING
CCoI runs two skills and design courses which have both established an international reputation. The courses in ceramics and jewellery operate on an intensive two year, continually assessed cycle, resulting in a very high standard of work being achieved.

Ceramic Skills & Design Course
The CCoI Ceramics Skills & Design Course in Thomastown saw the 2010 students successfully complete their first year in July 2011 with an end of year show in the Grennan Mill Craft School.

The professional practice and workshop development modules of the course included a complete refurbishment of the entrance/display area. All of the work was carried out by the students and gave them an invaluable insight into the design and construction of display units, the importance of lighting and the use of promotional material. There was also some modernisation of the glaze research and adjoining areas.

In June a group of the students hosted workshops and demonstrations at Bloom in the Park and also gave day-long workshops in primary and secondary schools in Kilkenny.

The students attended all of the Irish Ceramics in Education (ICE) lectures throughout the year. In May a study trip to London included visits to COLLECT, the British Museum and the Victoria & Albert Museum (V&A) and in July the students attended the three day International Ceramics Festival at the University of Wales, Aberystwyth where over 30 ceramic artists gave workshops, demonstrations and lectures. Other events attended were the Year of Craft Public Conference in Dublin Castle and a lecture by Fullbright scholar Judith Schwartz.

During 2011, alumni from the course, Derek Wilson, Adam Buick and James Hake, were selected to show their work at COLLECT and Ceramic Art London, two highly prestigious and competitive fairs.
Jewellery & Goldsmithing Skills & Design Course
The CCoI Jewellery & Goldsmithing Skills & Design course replicates traditional jewellery and goldsmithing practices and has established an international reputation. The course content is structured to challenge and inspire students while working in traditional materials like precious metals and gemstones. The course curriculum is constantly updated to ensure the content is in line with current industry trends, practices and standards. CCoI invested in new technologies and upgrading existing equipment in 2011 to ensure students’ skills are relevant to current industry needs within the jewellery sector.

The 2011 graduates all completed work placements in some of the top jewellery houses in Ireland, England, and North America. This continued relationship with high profile enterprise within the jewellery industry helps to ensure an awareness of the sector and this cross dissemination of experiences amongst the students is invaluable. Two students, Yvonne Ross and Natasha Rollinson, both received Future Makers Awards in 2011 to pursue further training.

In February, French Master Goldsmith Franc Hechude from Paris, who has worked for world recognised jewellery houses such as Cartier, Tiffany and Louis Vuitton during his career, taught a two-week workshop in fine jewellery techniques. The students produced a challenging apprentice piece under Franc’s instruction which was in the style of these fine jewellery houses. Also in February, the students travelled to Munich on a research trip to visit Inhorgenta, the annual international jewellery fair which is the largest jewellery fair in Europe. This greatly enhanced the students’ knowledge of the commercial aspects of a craft based business, following their own participation in the National Crafts & Design Fair in December 2010.

In the summer of 2011 CCoI finalised the accreditation submission documents with the National University of Ireland, Maynooth. The successful conclusion of this process through 2011 supports the ongoing development of the CCoI jewellery course at a national level in its role as a training facility working to meet the direct needs of the jewellery craft sector in Ireland.

In 2011 three students completed the practical element of the Diamond Grading Diploma through the Gemmological Association of Great Britain. This is a world-recognized qualification and was not previously available in Ireland until CCoI started offering the course in Kilkenny in 2010.

A high quality of craftsmanship and individuality in design was on display at the Graduate Exhibition at the National Craft Gallery in July 2011. There were over 120 pieces on display and the exhibition, which was opened by Minister Phil Hogan, was very well received.

All 12 of the 2011 graduates are now working within the jewellery trade in Ireland and abroad.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS & COMMUNICATIONS
The activities of the Public Affairs & Communications team support the delivery of all programmes and events across the organisation through promotion and publicity. Many of the communications elements of initiatives delivered by the Market Development and Education, Training & Development teams have been referred to in the previous sections of this report. Further information and additional programmes are outlined below.

Media Partnerships & Relationship Building
Throughout 2011, CCoI continued to develop relationships with media partners such as House and Home, Irish Arts Review and other consumer magazines, national and local radio and national and regional newspapers. Maintaining these partnerships resulted in a strong presence of Irish craft across a number of media channels throughout 2011.

CCol was delighted to secure The Irish Times as a media partner for the Year of Craft 2011 programme. This media partnership resulted in a schedule of regular advertisements throughout the year promoting Year of Craft 2011 events and activities, both those organised by CCol and by our partners. In addition to regular coverage and features on craft, a particular highlight of the partnership was a 32 page Special Supplement on Irish craft which included articles contributed by a range of journalists. The supplement was published and distributed with copies of The Irish Times on 9th June to coincide with our Year of Craft 2011 public conference at Dublin Castle. The supplement was funded by both CCol and Fáilte Ireland.

We were also very appreciative of RTÉ’s involvement as a media partner for Year of Craft 2011. This partnership resulted in CCol securing advertising through the RTÉ Supporting the Arts scheme. CCol commissioned a 20 second advert to promote Year of Craft 2011 and featured the popular disciplines of ceramics, jewellery and wood as well as the ‘Imagined, Designed, Made in Ireland’ identity. The advert aired 50 times during a seven day period commencing on Monday 23rd May, the date of President Obama’s visit to Ireland.

Regular communication with the team at RTÉ’s Nationwide continued in 2011 and significant, ongoing coverage was secured for CCol clients throughout the country following suggestions and pitches from the Public Affairs & Communications team. We were particularly delighted to secure a full programme on Showcase 2011, which aired during the trade show, and Nationwide also dedicated a full programme to the art of blacksmithing with footage recorded at the Irish Artist Blacksmiths Association’s International Forge-in in Monaghan in June.

In line with CCoI’s strategy for increasing exposure for Irish crafts on television, CCoI worked in collaboration with Big Mountain Productions on the six part TV series Craft Master. Craft Master was commissioned by the RTÉ Lifestyle programming department to celebrate Year of Craft 2011 and received funding through the Broadcasting Authority of Ireland (BAI). This was in response to a proposal submitted to BAI by Big Mountain Productions in consultation with the Crafts Council of Ireland and with the support of RTÉ. The show featured 15 people from varying backgrounds and experience on a creative journey in ceramics, glass blowing, wood turning, textile weaving and metalwork under the guidance of experienced mentors: Colm de Ris (ceramics), Róisín de Buitléar (glass), Glenn Lucas (woodturning), Beth Moran (weaving) and Michael Budd (metalwork). The sixth episode was the grand final when Edward Cook (metalwork) and Caoimhe Woods (ceramics) were selected as the joint winners.

Following suggestions and recommendations from CCoI, a new “Made in Ireland” series was aired on the Pat Kenny radio show during the autumn of 2011. Recorded by Ella McSweeney and Athena Media, the series focused on traditional skills and featured several craft disciplines and interviews with individual craftspeople. The series featured 20-minute segments covering 13 different disciplines including craft disciplines such as leatherworking, stained glass making, furniture making, weaving and musical instrument making.

In May, An Post launched a special issue of five craft stamps to celebrate Year of Craft 2011. Each stamp featured one image to represent the five disciplines of glass, ceramics, wood, jewellery and textiles. The stamps themselves, as well as the first day cover and prestige booklets, were very well received.

Media Coverage

Throughout 2011 CCoI continued to provide information, images and content to various publications, which resulted in strong coverage across all media for Year of Craft 2011. An evaluation of all coverage during 2011 showed that the Year of Craft 2011 programme secured an Advertising Value Equivalent (AVE) of over €6 million.
Some highlights of coverage during 2011 are outlined below:

- A three-page feature with photographs and maker profiles in The Irish Times magazine on Saturday 28th May and a segment on TV3’s Ireland AM highlighting CCoI’s “Celebrating Irish Ceramics” campaign.
- Promotion of the Year of Craft 2011 celebrations at public events such as a feature in The Sunday Business Post on “The Irish Craft Garden” and craft activities at Bloom, and a two-page spread on the Irish Craft Showcase at Tall Ships Race, Waterford in a special supplement on the event produced with The RTÉ Guide.
- Several pieces of international coverage from a feature in ELLE Canada on Irish craftspeople working the in area of fashion to a segment on craft trails in Ireland and the Year of Craft 2011 programme on The Breakfast Show on New Zealand’s TVNZ.
- A feature in The Irish Times Special Supplement in August on careers in craft and the creative industries and several national and radio interviews following the announcement of the Leaving Cert results and CAO places.
- Several segments on RTÉ One’s Six One news covering stories such as the participation of Irish craftspeople at TENT during London Design Festival and the Craftitecture Pavilion at Electric Picnic 2011.
- Extensive exposure for the “Celebrating Ireland’s Designer Makers” consumer campaign including an interview on The Last Word with Matt Cooper on Today FM and two segments – on fashion and on furniture/interiors – on TV3’s Ireland AM, and for the “Celebrating Ireland’s Jewellery Makers” campaign with a four-page feature in Irish Tatler magazine.
- Significant coverage of exhibitions at the National Craft Gallery such as Modern Languages which included a five page feature in The Sunday Business Post’s Agenda magazine, a one hour special on RTÉ Radio One’s Arts Tonight with Vincent Woods, a preview in Crafts (the Crafts Council UK’s magazine), a segment on RTÉ One’s The View, all in November, and a half-hour Christmas special covering Modern Languages, Irish Craft Portfolio and Year of Craft 2011 on TG4’s Imeall.

Communication Tools

Website

CCol continued to maintain the corporate website www.ccoi.ie during 2011 while also promoting the Year of Craft 2011 programme through www.craftinireland.com which was developed and launched during 2010 in order to provide a more consumer friendly information resource. The site featured an online listing and searchable database of craft events happening throughout the island of Ireland and invited partner organisations hosting craft events to submit information online for addition to the programme. The site also links to other CCol sites including www.giveirishcraft.com, www.nationalcraftgallery.ie, www.irishcraftportfolio.com, www.learncraftdesign.com and www.futuremakers.ie. The Public Affairs & Communications team also commenced work on integrating our websites with a new customer relationship management (CRM) tool to be rolled out in 2012.

Year of Craft 2011 Event Guides

The Public Affairs & Communications team worked closely with the Year of Craft 2011 Project Manager, other CCol process teams, Craft Northern Ireland and the communications teams of our partner organisations in promoting the programme of activities during 2011. Quarterly event guides providing a flavour of the exciting range of events and experiences happening all over the country were developed and printed copies were distributed through a network of tourist offices, hotels and visitor attractions in order to reach a broad audience.

Information Events

During 2011, CCol participated in a number of selected events in order to promote the work of its members and clients and the Year of Craft 2011 programme. This included information stands at events such as the Interior Design & Art Fair, Bloom in the Park and the National Crafts & Design Fair where CCol supported and promoted registered clients exhibiting at the events and provided them with CCol’s Imagined, Designed, Made in Ireland point of sale materials.
E-Communications
During 2011 the Crafts Council of Ireland produced regular ezines including CRAFTlink, an interactive online newsletter distributed to our clients, members and subscribers of the ezine as well as a Year of Craft 2011 ezine to clients and members of the general public interested in craft in Ireland. These communications vehicles provide us with a valuable means of distributing industry news and sharing notices received from the wider craft audience with the newsletters’ subscribers.

Images and Archive
The number of programmes during 2011 such as the consumer campaigns, exhibitions and public events generated a large volume of images of Irish craft and craftspeople. CCoI continued to expand its library of professional images for the purposes of promoting to press, use in publications and on websites, and general archiving. These images were centrally held so that CCoI could respond efficiently to a variety of media requests from both national and international media.

Research and Surveys
Consumer Perceptions Research
At the end of each year the Crafts Council of Ireland commissions a survey to explore the public perception of Irish craft and to gauge growing interest and awareness in Irish craft. The survey was conducted by Millward Brown Lansdowne on behalf of the Crafts Council of Ireland in December 2011 with a nationally representative sample of the Irish population. As the fifth wave of research, comparisons could be drawn with previous years to show changes in perceptions and awareness.

This annual survey of consumers is an important source of information in informing the direction of programmes and activities for promoting craft in Ireland and in developing relationships with partners in order to ensure that Irish craft is accessible and available to consumers.

Member organisation and client online poll
As part of our consultation with our member organisations and clients regarding the proposal to amend the name of the Crafts Council of Ireland to include the word ‘Design’, we conducted an online poll to provide members and clients with an opportunity to submit their thoughts and feedback on the proposal. Based on discussions with our members and the outcome of the poll conducted at the end of 2011, the proposed name amendment did not proceed. The Public Affairs & Communications team will be exploring options regarding the introduction of a tag line for the organisation in the future to reflect CCoI’s remit in promoting craft and design in Ireland.

MEMBER ORGANISATIONS & CLIENT SERVICES
The member organisations of the Crafts Council of Ireland, both corporate bodies and GANS (Guilds, Associations, Networks, Societies), are an important group for CCoI as they represent the backbone of the Crafts Council of Ireland’s craft activities and supports in Ireland.

CCoI facilitated two GANS meetings in Kilkenny during 2011. These meetings provided member organisations with an opportunity to network, share best practice and discuss challenges and opportunities for promoting Irish craft. The meetings also proved to be an important forum for exchanging information, ideas and feedback on involvement in the Year of Craft 2011 initiative.

The first meeting took place on 31st March and was attended by 30 participants representing 25 member organisations. The agenda included presentations on the nominations process for the CCoI Board in advance of the AGM, plans for the Craft Master TV series from Big Mountain Productions, the experience of being on Dragons Den from Elaine-Sarah Comerford of Button & Co and an overview of Year of Craft 2011 activities for the first half of 2011. The afternoon session was a photography workshop with a professional photographer.

The second GANS meeting took place on 16th September and attracted 30 attendees representing 20 member organisations. The agenda included a presentation on Year of Craft 2011 events organised by GANS, a discussion on Heritage Crafts, feedback on lobbying the Government on issues relating to GANS /craftspeople such as signage, VAT and FAS placements, and a discussion on the proposal to amend the name of the Crafts Council of Ireland.
As an outcome of discussions at several previous GANS meetings, a Craft Heritage Association was set up in September 2011. The aims of the Heritage Crafts Association are to:

• Identify heritage crafts that are at risk in Ireland
• Execute studies/audits of Irish Heritage Crafts
• Promote the preservation of traditional craft skills at risk in Ireland
• Promote the archiving of heritage crafts
• Liaise with the Crafts Council of Ireland, the Heritage Council of Ireland and Heritage Officers through the City and County Councils (and any other bodies identified by the Executive Committee) to promote the aims of the Association

Network Support Scheme 2011

CCoI’s Network Support Scheme part funds marketing, exhibitions and training initiatives and the fund was increased for 2011 to assist GANS in participating in the Year of Craft 2011 initiative. The 2011 scheme was administered in two tranches with application deadlines of 30th November 2010 and 31st March 2011 in order to allow member organisations to plan their 2011 activities in advance or early in the year.

In the first round 19 GANS applied of which 17 were successful in securing funding and in the second round of applications 24 GANS applied of which 22 were successful in securing funding. The total amount of Network Support Funding allocated during 2011 was €87,810.

The Irish Artist Blacksmiths Association (IABA) received the largest allocation of funding for the International Forge-in, which took place in Monaghan in June and included lectures, exhibitions, demonstrations and classes with international master blacksmiths. The event was one of the highlights of Year of Craft 2011 and a huge success in promoting the art of blacksmithing, attracting over 200 blacksmiths from all over the world.

A breakdown of 31 member organisations which received financial support during 2011 is set out below:

Year of Craft 2011 Counties Initiative
In order to support craft activities throughout Ireland in 2011, CCoI established a Counties Initiative for the year, which saw 21 counties directly involved in Year of Craft 2011. In total, €117,386 of funding was allocated to support those counties in delivering dedicated craft programmes as part of Year of Craft 2011 and resulted in a national spread of high octane, high quality craft activity. These programmes included Designer Dublin, Cork Craft Month, Laois Year of Craft, Galway Craft Month and Craftfest Northwest. Further details on the Counties Initiative are available in our Year of Craft 2011 Report.

Seascapes
The Crafts Council of Ireland was delighted to co-ordinate the second exhibition of textiles in conjunction with our GANS members at the Knitting & Stitching Show at the RDS in Dublin, 10th - 13th November 2011. The theme of the exhibition was the sea and the underwater world; its colour, texture, pattern and force. Work took the form of a literal or abstract interpretation. 23 textile artists exhibited with over 28 pieces of work on display at the RDS throughout the Knitting & Stitching Show. Reflecting the positive response to the exhibition, plans were put in place for Seascapes to travel to the Craft Granary in Cahir for February and March 2012.
Client Register
During 2011 CCoI’s register of client enterprises increased from 2,240 to 2,562 and associate membership grew from 953 to 1,026.

Craft Demonstrations by GANS at Public Events
Demonstrations by the member organisations to showcase the wealth of skills amongst craftspeople living and working in Ireland proved extremely popular with members of the public throughout 2011. CCoI was delighted to work with our member organisations in coordinating craft demonstrations at a number of high profile public events during Year of Craft 2011.

Bloom in the Park, Dublin:
As part of CCoI’s Irish Craft Garden at Bloom, demonstrations throughout the five days of the event were provided by the Irish Basketmakers Association, The Irish Patchwork Society, Ceramics Ireland, Feltmakers Ireland, the Irish Guild of Weavers, Spinners and Dyers and the Irish Woodturners Guild.

Tall Ships Race, Waterford:
In CCoI’s Irish Craft Village located just off the quay in Waterford, demonstrations throughout the Tall Ships Race were provided by the Irish Woodturners Guild, the Irish Basketmakers Association, the Irish Patchwork Society and the Irish Guild of Weavers, Spinners and Dyers.

National Crafts & Design Fair, Dublin:
Due to the overwhelming response to the demonstrations areas at other events during 2011, a demonstrations area was incorporated into CCoI’s craft display area at the National Crafts & Design Fair, 30th November – 4th December. Once again, the demonstrations were very well received by the public. Exhibitors who had the opportunity to demonstrate their craft included:
- Woodturning - Joe Laird, Kieran Higgins and Fred O’Mahony
- Pottery - Helen Ennis, Adrian Wistrich and Colm de Ris
- Weaving - Beth Moran and Liz Christy

THANK YOU TO EVERYONE INVOLVED IN YEAR OF CRAFT
There are so many to thank and to applaud; no attempt at a list will succeed in reflecting everyone involved. As an organisation we have a profound respect for all our clients, members and partners whose involvement made this remarkable year happen. Sincere thanks to all who took up the mantle and exhibited and promoted their work across the length and breadth of the country; thank you to our membership organisations who aligned their activities to show Ireland what is happening in the guilds, associations, networks and societies across the country; thank you to all of the retailers and galleries who gave Irish craft a significant presence during 2011.

We were especially proud to have President Mary McAleese as our Patron of Year of Craft 2011. Her understanding of the importance of craft and design both culturally and economically impressed all that met her at the Craft Summit, the Year of Craft 2011 Public Conference and the other events throughout the year which the President kindly supported.

During 2011 we partnered with over 70 organisations, which ensured that a significant number of new audiences were exposed to the extraordinary skill, variety and standard of Irish craft and design during Year of Craft 2011 and into the future. The enthusiasm and professionalism of our partners was very much appreciated.

Our thanks to the team at Craft Northern Ireland for partnering with us on this initiative and enabling this to be an island of Ireland event. Following the Craft Summit held in Farmleigh in January, both the County & City Enterprise Boards and the Leader Development Companies actively got behind Year of Craft 2011 and more importantly are committed to the development of craft at a local and regional level going forward. This invaluable support is very much appreciated.

I would like to especially praise Maureen Kennelly, our Year of Craft Project Manager, for her unwavering conviction to the delivery of the programme and to Aideen Lynch, our Year of Craft Project Assistant. A sincere thank you to our craft champions and craft ambassadors throughout the country who assisted in the planning and promotion of Year of Craft 2011 and who played an outstanding role in ensuring awareness of the initiative at a regional level. I would like to also pay tribute to the many interns and volunteers amongst our members, clients and associates who contributed so generously of their time and expertise.

I would like to acknowledge and thank the CCoI team in Kilkenny whose passion and commitment to the craft sector has very proudly come to the fore during this exciting year. I would like to welcome Ciara Garvey who joined CCoI during 2011 and to express my thanks to those who left the team: Una Parsons, Des Doyle and Leslie Ryan. I am indebted to Una Parsons, my predecessor, whose vision it was to have a Year of Craft in 2011.

Finally, I would like to thank the Board of Directors of the Crafts Council of Ireland and Chairman Laura Magahy for their support, commitment and hard work during 2011. Each has given generously of their time and attention to ensuring the success of the Year of Craft 2011 programme through their encouragement and direction. I am also very grateful to the members of the Year of Craft 2011 Steering Committee whose initial guidance in developing the programme of activities showed incredible foresight.

2012 will continue to be a year of challenge for the crafts industry and for Ireland in general, and the success of Year of Craft 2011 will only truly be delivered when strong and continued sales are generated, and job creation within the craft and design sector firmly takes hold. Achieving these goals will only be possible through continuing to work together on joint initiatives, ensuring that we encourage innovation and develop the skills to deliver on opportunities that arise at home and internationally.

I look forward to working with our clients, member organisations, Board members, partners and the team in Kilkenny on our ambitious plans to ensure that the craft sector in Ireland is well positioned to avail of these opportunities as they present themselves in the coming years.

OUR INDUSTRY
YEAR OF CRAFT 2011 SUMMARY & HIGHLIGHTS

The Crafts Council of Ireland (CCol) and Craft Northern Ireland (Craft NI) designated 2011 as Year of Craft on the island of Ireland as a celebration of the richness and vitality of Irish craft and design. Ireland’s unique craft heritage and the authentic work of makers using both traditional skills and cutting edge contemporary techniques provided the inspiration for this year long programme. 2011 also marked the 40th anniversary of CCol, which was founded in 1971 following a visit by the World Crafts Council to Ireland the previous year.

The overall aim of this partnership initiative was to promote and celebrate the outstanding talents of craftspeople living and working throughout the island of Ireland in order to sustain and grow this economically significant sector. CCol was particularly delighted to have Mary McAleese, President of Ireland, as Patron of Year of Craft 2011. The President’s support was a resounding endorsement of the importance of craft in Ireland to our culture and our society, as well as its contribution to the Irish economy, both historically and in contemporary Ireland.

Together with its partners, CCol delivered an exciting programme of craft events and activities right across the country throughout 2011, as well as internationally. This included exhibitions, workshops, talks, demonstrations and children’s events, providing something for everyone. Consumers and event attendees had the opportunity to interact with craftspeople and learn about the talented makers behind the beautiful craft that is Imagined, Designed and Made in Ireland.

The programme of activities was promoted both nationally and internationally by CCol, Craft NI and its network of partner organisations, through a dedicated media campaign and through a comprehensive web presence at www.craftinireland.com, supported by social media.

CCol commenced the Year of Craft 2011 initiative by hosting its first ever Craft Summit at Farmleigh, which was attended by over 120 policy makers from various support agencies to discuss the future of the Irish craft sector and resulted in many tangible outcomes, which were explored and executed throughout 2011 and have been included in proposals and plans for the future.

CCol was particularly delighted that the World Crafts Council – Europe accepted an invitation to host their Annual General Assembly in Dublin in June to celebrate the designation of 2011 as Year of Craft. The event was attended by 16 representatives of craft organisations across Europe and led to international contacts and links with European counterparts.

To coincide with the WCC Europe visit, CCol held an international public conference ‘Craft Conscious: Re-Shaping Global Futures in the Innovation Age’ in Dublin Castle to discuss the future of craft. The event was attended by 281 delegates and included an address by Year of Craft 2011 Patron President Mary McAleese. The conference agenda included many celebrated international speakers and was facilitated by journalist and writer Fintan O’Toole. Following a keynote address from Edmund de Waal, ceramic artist and author, presentations were delivered by Edna dos Santos-Duisenberg, Chief - Creative Economies and Industries Programme at the United Nations; Brian Keaney of Tonfisk Design; Leonardo Bonanni, a world leader in the sustainable design of products and supply chains; and Finbarr Bradley, economist and lecturer.
CCol supported 31 Guilds, Associations, Networks and Societies (GANS) to present innovative and appealing work specifically for Year of Craft 2011 – this included the Irish Artist Blacksmiths Association’s highly successful International Forge-In in Monaghan which was attended by 200 blacksmiths from all over the world.

21 counties delivered dedicated craft programmes as part of Year of Craft 2011, which saw high octane, high quality craft activity take place throughout the country. These programmes include Designer Dublin, Cork Craft Month, Laois Year of Craft, Galway Craft Month and Craftfest Northwest.

The planning of a new national craft trail commenced as a direct result of CCol’s work with Fáilte Ireland on the Year of Craft 2011 programme and during 2011 the number of county craft trails expanded from 7 to 12.

The contents below provide an overview of some of the key highlights of Year of Craft 2011. This is by no means an exhaustive list but these landmark events and key projects provide an overview of the range of activity and the resulting impact.

HIGHLIGHTS OF YEAR OF CRAFT 2011
Large Scale Public Events:
• Irish craft was included in Saint Patrick’s Festival for the first time in 2011 with over 300 children participating in CCol’s free workshops across four disciplines and over 700 members of the public involved in the ‘Flags of Intention’ installation in Merrion Square, Dublin, on Sunday 20th March.
• The Tall Ships Race in Waterford, 30th June – 3rd July, which attracted an estimated 500,000 visitors, featured the Irish Craft Village and provided 60 craftspeople with an opportunity to sell directly to the public through 32 retail stands and saw 2,400 children get actively involved in craft through a series of free workshops.
• Bloom in the Park, which attracted almost 90,000 visitors to the Phoenix Park over five days, 2nd – 6th June, featured the Irish Craft Garden, which had a prime location and showcased the work of 30 craftspeople in a specially designed wander space. The CCol area also included 21 retail stands providing some makers with one of their most successful direct selling events, gave 430 children the opportunity to participate in free craft workshops and allowed the public to learn more about skills and craftsmanship through craft demonstrations.
• New this year to Electric Picnic, 2nd – 4th September, was Cruth Curach, the Craftitecture pavilion, a fusion of dynamic architectural design and skilled Irish craftsmanship, designed by Bucholz McEvoy Architects and hand built by the Galway School of Boat Builders. Cruth Curach was commissioned by CCol and the Irish Architecture Foundation through an open competition in celebration of Year of Craft 2011.
Headline Exhibitions/Events with Partners:
CCol actively sought out new partners and worked with them closely to introduce craft to their programmes - for many craft was an entirely new strand. The intention was to reach new audiences who might be surprised to find craft at events such as Electric Picnic and Dublin Fringe Festival.
- CCol co-presented a seven week long craft exhibition called Crafted Creatures with The Ark - A Cultural Centre for Children from 15th February to 3rd April, which reached an audience of over 4,600 and was accompanied by a comprehensive workshop programme and a specially created craft trail through Dublin city centre.
- New partnerships were brokered with festivals and galleries such as:
  - Baboró International Arts Festival for Children, 17th – 23rd October, introduced craft in a significant way to their programmes in 2011 with the support and involvement of Year of Craft 2011.
  - Irish Craft Portfolio exhibition at The RHA Gallery, Dublin, 24th – 28th November.
  - Galway Arts Festival, with the exhibitions Material Poetry and Modern Languages, 11th – 14th July.

Aidan Dunne’s comment in his review of the Galway Arts Festival visual programme in The Irish Times on 22nd July: ‘Chaotic Rabbits (No. 1-5)’ by Sharon Hay, Crafted Creatures
2011 bears out the success of this approach: “There are also craft shows, rightly presented side by side with all manner of fine art practices.”

CCoI sought to intersect other worlds with craft:

- Literature - most strikingly through the presentation of Edmund de Waal’s sold out public reading and the Modified Expression exhibition at the National Craft Gallery in Kilkenny.
- Fashion - Joe Hogan’s collaboration with Irish designer Joanne Hynes seen at London Fashion Week and subsequently in Ireland.
- Architecture through Craftitecture presented at Electric Picnic and at Open House Dublin.
- Sport through Culture Night at Culture Box where Dublin’s All-Ireland win was celebrated in the “Craft Your County Colours” workshop with textile artists Angela O’Kelly and Liadain Butler.

Key promotion of Irish Craft

- An Post released a special issue of five stamps featuring Irish craft to celebrate Year of Craft 2011.
- In collaboration with CCoI, Big Mountain Productions produced Craft Master, a new 6 part television series to coincide with Year of Craft 2011 which aired on RTÉ One in the autumn of 2011 to wide acclaim.
- Following input from CCoI, Athena Media produced the radio segment Made in Ireland for RTE Radio 1’s Today with Pat Kenny programme which included several craft features.
- Enabled by the RTÉ Supporting the Arts Scheme, CCoI produced and screened a new and highly acclaimed television advertisement promoting Irish craft during high profile slots coinciding with the week of President Obama’s visit to Ireland, reaching an enormous audience.
- As well as regular segments on Irish television on programmes such as RTE One’s Six One News and Nationwide, and TV3’s Ireland AM, CCoI secured exposure for Irish craft on international television, such as The Breakfast Show on TVNZ in New Zealand.

Irish Craft on the international stage during Year of Craft 2011

- The National Craft Gallery presented an exhibition of the work of eight contemporary Irish makers at COLLECT, which took place at The Saatchi Gallery in London, in May. Six of the makers were from the Crafts Council of Ireland’s Irish Craft Portfolio - Sara Flynn, ceramicist; Jack Doherty, ceramicist; Karl Harron, glass artist; Nest Design, furniture designers; Marcus O’Mahony, ceramicist; and Yaffe Mays, furniture designers. Also included in the exhibition were glass artist Róisín de Buitléar, recipient of the 2010 Crafts Council of Ireland Irish Craft Bursary and ceramicist Derek Wilson, previous recipient of the Crafts Council of Ireland Student Award.
• Through the Year of Craft 2011 programme, CCol supported 12 Irish designer makers in attending TENT London, one of the largest design trade shows taking place during the London Design Festival, where they received wide acclaim and valuable exposure for their work.
• Material Poetry and dubh - dialogues in black were also supported by the Crafts Council of Ireland and attracted significant exposure at the American Irish Historical Society, New York, 7th October – 13th November.

Demonstrations/Workshops/Education Programmes
• In all, over 12,000 children had a direct engagement with craft through specially devised workshops at a range of public events during 2011, including Big Day Out at St. Patrick’s Festival, Bloom in the Park, Tall Ships Race Waterford and Kilkenny Arts Festival.
• www.learncraftdesign.com, a comprehensive new digital resource for first and second level education, was developed as one of the legacies of Year of Craft 2011 and was launched during the Baboró Festival in Galway.
• The above list is merely a snapshot of some key highlights. The full breadth of the programme reflects the health and vitality of Ireland’s craft sector and bodes well for the future of this important industry.

Delivering the comprehensive programme of events and activities, generating excitement for Irish craft and maintaining momentum throughout the year long programme would not have been possible without the enthusiastic and dedicated involvement of CCol’s member organisations and clients, strategic partners, event planners, retailers, educators and the general public as well as the craft champions, craft ambassadors and the many volunteers who supported craft events in 2011. CCol would like to express its sincere gratitude to all those who participated in the Year of Craft 2011 programme.

While the impact of the Year of Craft was felt immediately on many levels, the legacy of the initiative for the craft sector in Ireland will evolve over the coming years. CCol looks forward to maintaining many of the partnerships initiated during 2011 and is committed to sustaining and growing Ireland’s dynamic craft and design sector into the future.

RTE
CONSUMER PERCEPTIONS SURVEY 2011

More people than ever are purchasing Irish crafts, reflecting a growing desire from consumers to buy Irish and support local enterprises, according to the results of new research commissioned by the Crafts Council of Ireland in 2011. The survey of a nationally representative sample of 800 participants also shows that over half of the population (51%) is interested in buying and owning Irish crafts.

Background to the research:
The research was conducted as a telephone survey in December 2011 by Millward Brown Lansdowne on behalf of CCol. This was the fifth wave of research, allowing for comparison with results of surveys conducted between 2006 and 2010 where relevant.

The 2011 and previous studies are fully nationally representative of the Irish population (by gender, age, social class and region) and allow for like-for-like comparison of results. The previous three waves were also conducted in December of each year, coinciding with a number of key activities typically organised pre-Christmas by CCol.

The key objectives of the research were to understand the following:
• Which products the public perceive as craft
• The public’s interest in buying and owning Irish craft products
• Perceptions of Irish craft
• Purchasing behaviour
• Barriers to purchasing
• Public awareness of activity around the Year of Craft 2011

III Imagined, Designed, Made in Ireland Display, National Crafts & Design Fair
KEY FINDINGS FROM THE SURVEY

1 - What are crafts? Perception of product categories
Respondents were asked to think about Irish made and designed crafts - hand made products, both functional and decorative – and which products or items come to mind:

Top of mind craft categories
(Base: All adults 15+, n=800)

- Textiles and ceramics/pottery are still top of mind amongst consumers when thinking of crafts
- Awareness of woodwork and furniture has grown, but there has been a decline for glass
- Textiles/knitwear are at their highest level of mention to date at 39%
- The top five product categories remain unchanged; however mentions for woodwork have increased significantly
- Top-of-mind mentions for glass have decreased significantly
- 28% of those interviewed mentioned other types of crafts, including items such as paintings, Christmas decorations and needlework
A number of items and products were then read out to respondents. For each one, the respondent was asked whether or not they considered them to be crafts.

Prompted endorsement of craft categories
(Base: All adults 15+, n=800)

- Prompted endorsement of products as crafts has increased significantly across a number of categories
2 - Interest in and attitudes towards crafts
Respondents were asked to what extent they would say they were interested in buying and owning crafts.

Interest in buying and owning craft
(Base: All adults 15+, n=800)

- Levels of interest in buying and owning craft products have increased significantly since 2010
- The increase is driven by women, those aged 35+ and in the higher socio-economic groups
Respondents were asked to generally think about crafts and on a scale of 1 to 5 (5 being Strongly Agree and 1 being Strongly Disagree) to indicate to what extent they would agree or disagree with a series of statements.

Perceptions of Irish craft
(Base: All adults 15+, n=800)

- Craft items now more than ever are perceived as an ideal gift, and recognition of the authenticity of their construction is growing
There has been a decline in numbers claiming not to think about crafts at all, and fewer now claim to consider them “just souvenirs.”

Females, the older demographic and those who have bought Irish craft are its strongest advocates.

Those who have already purchased craft are far more likely to endorse it, particularly in terms of its suitability as a gift or as art. They also value it on merits such as quality and appeal.

3 - Purchasing Crafts – incidence, location and barriers
Respondents were asked whether or not they had purchased a craft item (or items) in the previous 12 months.

Craft purchase in previous 12 months
(Base: All Adults 15+, n=800)

- Significantly more claim to have purchased a craft item in the past 12 months, compared to 2010
- Females, ABC1s and those based in Dublin are significantly more likely to have purchased a craft item in the past 12 months
Those who had purchased craft in the past 12 months:

- There has been a decline in the average spend on craft since 2010, reflecting similar reductions in spend across other product categories.
- Those in Connacht/Ulster and those aged 50-64 are spending more than average.
- Spend on artwork has fallen since 2010, and there has been a decrease in spend across most categories. However, candles, jewellery and furniture are bucking this trend.

- Cost is the main barrier to craft purchase
- Males are less likely to have considered buying crafts before
- For over 1 in 2, the perceived expense of craft is a barrier to purchase
- 3 in 10 have never considered buying craft items; however this number has decreased slightly
- Over 1 in 4 claim to be unaware of craft purchase points
- Similarly to 2010, females are more cost-conscious, but are more likely to have considered craft purchases than males
- Awareness of where to purchase is higher among ABC1s
Respondents were asked if they had seen, heard or read anything about Irish craft in a list of places during 2011.

- Any of these: 95%
- None of these: 5%

- These high level of awareness reveal the positive impact of initiatives such as the “Imagined, Designed, Made in Ireland” identity on point of sale materials in retail outlets and craft fairs, and the six part TV series Craft Master aired on RTÉ One in autumn 2011.
Respondents were asked if they had noticed an increased level of activity around Irish craft during 2011.

Activity around Irish craft in 2011

(Base: All adults 15+, n=800)

- Over a third claim to have noticed an increased level of activity around Irish craft in 2011
Summary and Conclusions

- Measures of spontaneous awareness of craft show few changes in the top 5; with woodwork and furniture gaining significantly more mentions than in 2010. Top-of-mind awareness of craft is generally higher among women, higher socio-economic groups and older people.

- Levels of interest in owning and buying craft products has increased significantly since 2011, and disinterest has plummeted. This is driven by women, those aged 50+ and ABC1s.

- 8 in 10 recognise the value of giving craft as a gift, and over 7 in 10 recognise the benefits such as artistic merit, Irishness, authenticity and quality, particularly among females and those who have purchase craft within the past year. This amounts to a strong endorsement of Irish craft and builds on a solid, credible foundation from which Irish craft can continue to grow.

- Negativity towards Irish craft has diminished, with evidence that the public is considering craft more than in the past, and not just as souvenirs.

- Spend has decreased, particularly in the top brackets; however incidence of claimed purchase has increased significantly, with nearly two-thirds of the public now saying they have bought an item of craft within the past year. There is evidence that consumers are buying more products but at a lower price point.

- There has been an increase in purchase of textiles/knitwear; however ceramics/pottery remain the most commonly purchased items. Craft fairs are now an increasingly popular point of purchase.

- Craft is predominantly perceived as a gift – the public is twice as likely to buy for others. It is still prudent to bear in mind that one in three buy craft for themselves, however.

- Over half of non-purchasers feel that expense is a barrier to purchase. However there is evidence that the public is starting to become more conscious of craft.

- 95% of those interviewed have seen, heard or read something about Irish craft in the past year, with 72% having noticed something in retail outlets. Irish craft was noticed in the media, with newspapers/magazines, TV programmes and TV advertising featuring strongly.

- It is positive and encouraging that over a third noticed increased activity levels around Irish craft throughout the Year of Craft 2011 initiative.

- Overall, the higher awareness levels and positive engagement with Irish craft indicate openness to future communication, with the potential for further growth.
OUR BUSINESS
THE HISTORY OF THE CRAFTS COUNCIL OF IRELAND

The Crafts Council of Ireland is the national design and economic development organisation for the craft industry in Ireland. Its activities are funded by the Department of Jobs, Enterprise and Innovation via Enterprise Ireland. It is a membership based organisation which works with clients registered as craft enterprises or as associates.

The Crafts Council of Ireland was founded in 1971 following a visit by the World Crafts Council (WCC) the previous year. Bringing the WCC General Assembly to Ireland was organised by the Irish Society for Design and Craftwork, Dr Muriel Gahan, the Royal Dublin Society (RDS) and Blanaid Reddin among others. It was an event which inspired many and which resulted in the formation of the Crafts Council of Ireland as a voluntary body under the chairmanship of Frank Sutton, with a committee of honorary officials. The RDS provided office facilities and met all secretarial expenses. Subscriptions were raised by members.

In 1976 CCoI became a limited company. Funding was received from the Minister for Industry and Commerce, Justin Keating and from the Industrial Development Authority and it employed a staff of two at Thomas Prior House, Ballsbridge. Its brief was to work for the improvement of standards in craft and the welfare of craftspeople and to act as advisors to the Government in matters concerning crafts. In 1977, Showcase began as the National Crafts Trade Fair with 34 exhibitors.

From 1973 to 1983, a Management Committee of 15 people was elected by ballot at CCoI’s Annual General Meeting to devise policy and oversee its implementation by the Secretariat. In 1983, however, the Articles of Association were amended to allow the Minister for Industry and Commerce to nominate five members of the Management Committee, while the remaining 10 members continued to be elected by CCoI member organisations. Elections were held annually, when the three longest serving elected members retire by rotation. Ministerial appointments were for a period of three years.

In 1997 the retail activity ceased and reduced gallery activities were put in place from DesignYard in Temple Bar for about a year. All administration activity transferred permanently to Kilkenny.

The opening of the National Craft Gallery in 2000 marked a new era for the Crafts Council of Ireland, providing a new and permanent exhibition space for craft in Ireland.

In 2010 the Articles of Association were amended to reduce the size of the Board of Management from 15 to 12 Directors (four ministerial appointees and eight elected representatives of the member organisations) and to restrict the length of time that any Board Director can serve to a maximum of two periods of three years each.

Over the years, the aims and objectives of the Crafts Council of Ireland have evolved and grown to meet the needs of the industry and to ensure its continued growth and development. CCoI’s fourth Strategic Plan 2010 – 2012 was launched in 2010. A key initiative in that plan was the designation of 2011 as Year of Craft to celebrate the outstanding talents of craftspeople living and working throughout the island of Ireland in order to sustain and grow the sector. In partnership with Craft Northern Ireland and a network of strategic partners, CCoI delivered an exciting program of craft events throughout 2011, both nationally and internationally.

The Crafts Council of Ireland’s Strategic Plan 2010 – 2012 sets out an ambitious and challenging programme of activity, especially given the current economic environment. Working with existing partners and developing strategic partnerships with organisations, agencies and other bodies throughout Ireland is central to delivering on the goals contained within the Plan.

Based on the objectives of the Strategic Plan, CCoI set out to engage and consult with a number of key support agencies in January 2011 as part of the Year of Craft 2011 Craft Summit. The outputs of the Craft Summit provided strategic focus as the organisation set about delivering on the second year of the three year plan for 2010 – 2012.

Building on the progress made during 2010, brief updates on the programme of activities across the organisation during 2011 are set out below, with more detail available in the Chief Executive’s Report contained within this document and in the Year of Craft 2011 Report.

All activities across the organisation are planned and implemented in line with the objectives of the Strategic Plan. Therefore all proposals and opportunities that arise are evaluated on a case by case basis and will only proceed if a project will assist in the delivery of CCoI’s strategic goals and can be implemented through existing programmes.

The main focus of the Strategic Plan is on developing and growing the craft industry in Ireland. Four main strategic objectives were identified, each with associated areas of focus. An operational plan was developed in tandem with the Strategic Plan to map out activities across all programme teams.

The four main strategic objectives of the Strategic Plan 2010 – 2012 are as follows:

- Developing the Market for Irish Craft
- Building the Next Generation of Craftmakers
- Raising Awareness of Irish Craft
- Strengthening the Member Organisations

Objective 1: DEVELOPING THE MARKET FOR IRISH CRAFT

The Crafts Council of Ireland is committed to developing market opportunities for Irish craft, through two strands of activity: Developing Market Channels and Developing Craft Enterprises. The key aims are:

1a: Developing the Market Channels
- To expand the retail channels for Irish craft
- To increase direct selling opportunities for Irish craft
- To develop the tourism market for the benefit of Irish craft
- To develop the commercial gallery and exhibition channels for Irish craft

1b: Developing Craft Enterprises
- To deliver a range of supports for craft enterprises through a comprehensive CCoI mentoring service
- To deliver skills training addressing specific industry needs
- To create business support information for CCoI member organisations and craft enterprises
- To develop relationships with national and international partners to increase training and development in Irish craft
- To identify and influence opportunities for teacher education for craftsmakers

UPDATE:

Expanding the retail channels for Irish craft was a central component of the Year of Craft 2011 initiative. During the year CCoI launched and supported four strong consumer marketing campaigns to grow understanding of disciplines, awareness of individual maker brands and sales across various channels. These campaigns were supported through the expansion of the www.giveirishcraft.com website. In addition to growing ties with major retailers, CCoI encouraged innovative retailing initiatives through the launch of the “Curated Craft” programme as part of Year of Craft 2011.

CCoI also leveraged Showcase to connect with international retailers. As part of the organisation’s plans... for continually developing the annual show, CCol expanded the Creative Island area at Showcase 2011 and put plans in place for the launch of a new Fashion Show at Showcase 2012. In order to increase opportunities for direct sales, CCol exhibited at four major direct-sales events: Bloom in the Park, Tall Ships Race Waterford, the Interior Design & Art Fair and the National Crafts & Design Fair, while also supporting numerous smaller direct selling shows such as pop-up shops.

The National Craft Gallery expanded both its programme of exhibitions in Kilkenny and the touring programme. CCol created an external exhibitions fund and also supported numerous makers to show abroad. Relationships were strengthened with exhibition partners and a new show was launched at the Royal Hibernian Academy (RHA) featuring work from Irish Craft Portfolio. Throughout 2011, CCol also worked with Fáilte Ireland to visit and audit 130 craft studios in preparation for the roll out of a national craft trail initiative in 2012.

Objective 2: BUILDING THE NEXT GENERATION OF CRAFTMAKERS

The Crafts Council of Ireland believes that building the next generation of craftmakers through a range of education initiatives is critical to the future of the Irish craft industry. In order to achieve this goal the key aims are:

• To increase national awareness of craft as a career
• To delivery a National Primary Level Initiative in support of the national curriculum
• To deliver an Education & Outreach programme targeted at second level to increase awareness of careers in craft
• To initiate targeted programmes for craftmaker and teacher development
• To ensure the future of the skills provided by the Ceramics and Jewellery Schools
• To grow relationships with national bodies to contribute to education policy in craft education

UPDATE:

Existing education programmes were enhanced and new initiatives announced during Year of Craft 2011. CRAFTed, CCol’s craft education initiative for primary schools, was delivered as a nationwide programme in partnership with Education Centres and a new dedicated online learning resource for teachers www.learncraftdesign.com was developed and launched as a legacy of Year of Craft 2011. The Future Makers Awards & Grants programme was maintained and the accompanying website was redeveloped.

The Education & Outreach team coordinated visitors to the National Craft Gallery on gallery tours (primary, secondary, third level and special interest groups) and developed support materials for the exhibitions and talks as part of the National Craft Gallery exhibition programme. New partnerships were established with the outreach teams of other cultural centres and festivals, and over 12,000 children participated in craft workshops around the country through the Year of Craft 2011 programme.

Objective 3: RAISING AWARENESS OF IRISH CRAFT

The Crafts Council of Ireland aims to raise awareness of Irish craft in order to encourage interest in and demand for Irish craft products. To enable this, the key aims are:

• To adopt a focused approach to promoting Irish craft to various audiences
• To redevelop the CCol website and targeted communications based on the requirements of the agreed identified audiences
• To generate interest in Irish craft through the Year of Craft 2011 Programme
• To increase exposure to Irish craft through media and strategic partnerships
• To conduct research to facilitate market intelligence on all aspects of the Irish craft sector

UPDATE:
The Year of Craft 2011 initiative was promoted throughout the year with all events, promotional campaigns and activities across all process teams supported through national and local media, online and social media. Key coverage was achieved across TV, radio and both national and regional print media, including several pieces of TV and print media coverage internationally.

An Post launched a series of five stamps promoting Irish craft to mark Year of Craft 2011. The media partnerships established for Year of Craft resulted in a series of adverts and a 32 page special supplement on Irish craft in The Irish Times, and the airing of a specially created TV advert through the RTÉ Supporting the Arts Scheme. Relationships were also maintained and established with other key media throughout the country and internationally. CCoI worked in collaboration with Big Mountain Productions on a six-part TV series Craft Master which was aired on RTÉ One in autumn 2011.

To support the level of activity for the Year of Craft 2011 programme, a new website www.craftinireland.com was launched, allowing visitors to search for activities by location, date and type. As part of CCoI’s ongoing web developments, the implementation of a new, comprehensive CRM system commenced, to be rolled out in 2012.

CCoI’s annual Consumer Perceptions Survey was conducted by Millward Brown Lansdowne in December 2011 and the outcomes were very encouraging for the initial impact that the Year of Craft 2011 initiative had on consumers.

Objective 4:
STRENGTHENING THE MEMBER ORGANISATIONS
The member organisations of the Crafts Council of Ireland play an important role in enhancing the awareness of Irish craft and the skills of craftmaking. This strategic theme recognises this contribution and outlines the Crafts Council of Ireland’s strategy of working closely with the member organisations for the overall benefit of Irish craft. Key aims for achieving this are:
• To enhance the links between the member organisations and the Crafts Council of Ireland
• To strengthen member organisations’ ability to contribute to the craft sector by empowering them through targeted funding
• To increase the presence of all member organisations on the CCoI website
• To work with the member organisations in preserving Ireland’s craft heritage
• To create opportunities for craft awareness by utilising the expertise of the member organisations

UPDATE:
During 2011 the Guilds, Associations, Networks and Societies (GANS) took part in and provided craft demonstrations at numerous events across the country such as Showcase, Bloom, Tall Ships Race Waterford, Electric Picnic and the National Crafts & Design Fair to name just a few. As part of Year of Craft 2011, the Network Supports Scheme was extended and 31 GANS participated with an exciting array of activities and CCoI coordinated a Counties Initiative, which saw 21 counties directly involved in the Year of Craft programme.

As a result of discussions at the GANS meetings that took place in 2011, a Craft Heritage Association was set up in September 2011 in order to focus on maintaining the heritage of some traditional crafts.

NEXT STEPS:
Following the progress that was made during a very busy year in 2011, an operational plan was developed for the organisation to map out the activities for 2012, which will bring the current Strategic Plan to a close. During 2012 the next Strategic Plan for 2013 – 2015 will also be developed and launched before the end of the year.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS

DIRECTORS RESPONSIBILITIES

The directors are responsible for the preparation of the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and accounting standards issued by the Accounting Standards Board and promulgated by the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland (Generally Accepted Accounting Practice in Ireland). The directors are also required to prepare the financial statements on a going concern basis which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the company and of the income and expenditure of the company for the year. In preparing the financial statements, the directors are required to select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently and to make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent. The directors confirm that they have complied with the above requirements in preparing the financial statements.

The directors are responsible for keeping proper accounting records which disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the company and to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Companies Acts 1963 to 2009. To ensure that proper books and accounting records are kept in accordance with Section 202 Companies Act, 1990, the company has employed appropriately qualified accounting personnel and has maintained appropriate accounting systems. The books of account are located at the company’s office at Castle Yard, Kilkenny. The directors are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the company and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

BUSINESS REVIEW AND FUTURE ACTIVITIES

The Crafts Council of Ireland, which is headquartered in Kilkenny, is the main champion of the craft industry in Ireland, fostering its growth and commercial strength, communicating its unique identity and stimulating quality design, innovation and competitiveness. Crafts Council of Ireland’s activities are funded by the Department of Jobs, Enterprise and Innovation via Enterprise Ireland. Crafts Council of Ireland currently has over 72 member organisations and over 2,500 registered clients.

The directors are satisfied with the company’s performance during the year.

STATEMENT OF SYSTEM OF INTERNAL FINANCIAL CONTROLS

The Board of Directors acknowledges its responsibility for the Crafts Council of Ireland Limited’s system of financial control. It also recognises that any system of financial control can only give a reasonable and not absolute assurance against any material errors. The internal financial controls in operation within the Crafts Council of Ireland Limited during 2011 are detailed as follows.

The key procedures, which have been put in place by the Executive Management Team, designed to provide effective financial control are:

CONTROL ENVIRONMENT

• All staff members have been supplied with financial procedures manual, including procurement, debtor and creditor procedures.

IDENTIFICATION OF BUSINESS RISKS AND FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS

• The Crafts Council of Ireland Limited is primarily grant funded by the Department of Jobs, Enterprise and Innovation through Enterprise Ireland. Any major change to this funding is a business risk.

INFORMATION SYSTEMS

• The Crafts Council of Ireland Limited’s information systems include an integrated professional financial and management accounting package AccountEdge. There are integrated financial control modules for income, expenditure, debtors, creditors and fixed assets on the system.

• The Crafts Council of Ireland Limited uses a computerised payroll package.

PROCEDURES FOR MONITORING EFFECTIVENESS OF FINANCIAL CONTROL

• The Finance Team monitors income and expenditure transactions to ensure compliance for accuracy, validity and appropriate programme attribution. Monthly management accounts are prepared, comparing budgeted income and expenditure with that actually incurred.

• The Board of Directors have established an Audit and Finance Committee. The Terms of Reference of this Committee are agreed by the Board of Directors.

• The Audit and Finance Committee reviews the management accounts, with an examination of the underlying transactions and activities to ensure completeness and accuracy. A financial update from the Audit and Finance Committee is given at each Crafts Council of Ireland board meeting.

• There is an annual budgetary process whereby each process team produces a detailed direct expenditure budget, which is then reviewed by the Audit and Finance Committee and approved by the Board of Directors.

• The Board of Directors monitoring and review of the effectiveness of the system of internal financial control is informed by the work of the Internal Auditor, the Audit and Finance Committee, the External Financial Auditor and the Executive Management Team within the Crafts Council of Ireland.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS REPORT TO THE
SHAREHOLDERS OF CRAFTS COUNCIL OF IRELAND
LIMITED

We have audited the financial statements of Crafts Council of Ireland Limited on pages 83 to 93 which have been prepared under the historical cost convention and the accounting policies set out therein.

This report is made solely to the company’s members, as a body, in accordance with Section 193 of the Companies Act, 1990. Our audit work has been undertaken so that we might state to the company’s members those matters we are required to state to them in an auditor’s report and for no other purpose. To the fullest extent permitted by law, we do not accept or assume responsibility to anyone other than the company and the company’s members as a body, for our audit work, for this report, or for the opinions we have formed.

RESPECTIVE RESPONSIBILITIES OF DIRECTORS AND AUDITORS
As described on page 78 the company’s directors are responsible for the preparation of the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and the accounting standards issued by the Accounting Standards Board and promulgated by the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland (Generally Accepted Accounting Practice in Ireland).

Our responsibility is to audit the financial statements in accordance with relevant legal and regulatory requirements and International Standards on Auditing (UK and Ireland).

We report to you our opinion as to whether the financial statements give a true and fair view, in accordance with Generally Accepted Accounting Practice in Ireland, and are properly prepared in accordance with the Companies Acts, 1963 to 2009. We also report to you whether in our opinion: proper books of account have been kept by the company and whether the information given in the directors’ report is consistent with the financial statements. In addition, we state whether we have obtained all the information and explanations necessary for the purposes of our audit and whether the company’s financial statements are in agreement with the books of account.

We also report to the members if, in our opinion, any information specified by law regarding directors’ remuneration and directors’ transactions is not given and, where practicable, include such information in our report.

We read the directors’ report and consider the implications for our report if we become aware of any apparent misstatement within it.

BASIS OF OPINION
We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (UK and Ireland) issued by the Auditing Practices Board. An audit includes examination, on a test basis, of evidence relevant to the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. It also includes an assessment of the significant estimates and judgements made by the directors in the preparation of the financial statements, and of whether the accounting policies are appropriate to the company’s circumstances, consistently applied and adequately disclosed.

We planned and performed our audit so as to obtain all the information and explanations which we considered necessary in order to provide us with sufficient evidence to give reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free from material misstatement, whether caused by fraud or other irregularity or error. In forming our opinion we also evaluated the overall adequacy of the presentation of information in the financial statements.
OPINION

In our opinion, the financial statements give a true and fair view, in accordance with Generally Accepted Accounting Practice in Ireland, of the state of the company’s affairs as at 31 December 2011 and of its deficit and cashflows for the year then ended and have been properly prepared in accordance with the Companies Acts, 1963 to 2009.

We have obtained all the information and explanations that we consider necessary for the purposes of our audit. In our opinion, proper books of account have been kept by the company. The financial statements are in agreement with the books of account.

In our opinion, the information given in the directors’ report on pages 78 and 79 is consistent with the financial statements.

STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The following accounting policies are applied consistently in dealing with items which are considered material in relation to the company’s financial statements:

BASIS OF ACCOUNTING
The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting standards generally accepted in Ireland and the Companies Acts 1963 to 2009. Accounting Standards generally accepted in Ireland in preparing financial statements giving a true and fair view are those published by the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland and issued by the Accounting Standards Board.

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE
Income and expenditure is recognised when earned or incurred and is dealt with in the financial statements of the year to which it relates.

TANGIBLE FIXED ASSETS AND DEPRECIATION
Tangible fixed assets are stated in the balance sheet at cost less accumulated depreciation.

Depreciation is provided on leasehold improvements, office equipment and computers and equipment and machinery, so as to write off the cost less estimated residual value of each asset over its expected useful economic life on a straight line basis at the following annual rates:

- Leasehold improvements - 16.67% Straight Line
- Office equipment and computers - 33.3% Straight Line
- Equipment and machinery - 20% Straight Line

PENSIONS
The pension costs charged in the financial statements represent the contribution payable by the company during the year. The regular cost of providing retirement pensions and related benefits is charged to the income and expenditure account as it is incurred.

DEFERRED TAXATION
Full provision is made for deferred tax liabilities arising from timing differences between the recognition of gains and losses in the financial statements and their recognition in a tax computation. Timing differences are temporary differences between surpluses as computed for taxation purposes and surpluses as stated in the financial statements. Deferred tax assets are recognised only where they are regarded as recoverable. Deferred tax is measured on a non-discounted basis.

GOVERNMENT GRANTS
Grants are credited to deferred revenue. Grants towards capital expenditure are released to the income and expenditure account over the expected useful life of the assets. Grants towards revenue expenditure are released to the income and expenditure account as the related expenditure is incurred.

Deferred income relates to funding from Fáilte Ireland and Enterprise Ireland in relation to the “Year of Craft 2011”. Some of the funding was spent during 2010 laying the groundwork and preparing for the Year of Craft. The Crafts Council of Ireland has entered into commitments to spend the balance of this advance funding in 2012.

The deposits in 2010 related to an advance from Showcase Ireland Events Limited. This advance arose from booking deposits for the 2011 Showcase Trade Fair.

11. PENSION COSTS

On 15 December 1986 the then Minister for Industry and Commerce established the Crafts Council of Ireland Limited Staff Superannuation Scheme 1986 and on 11 April 1990 the then Minister for Industry and Commerce established the Crafts Council of Ireland Limited Spouses' and Children's Contributory Pension Scheme 1990.

These two pension schemes are now closed to new members. These two schemes are contributory unfunded defined benefit schemes. Contributions deducted from the payroll of staff up to 31 March 2003 were forwarded to Enterprise Ireland. Contributions deducted from staff since April 2003 are used to fund ongoing pension liabilities.

The directors believe that the State has a responsibility to the company and the members of the scheme to meet the obligations of the Scheme as they arise.

The directors believe that the company has an asset of an equal amount to any unfunded deferred liability for pensions on the basis of the assumptions detailed below and a number of past events. These events include the statutory basis for the establishment of the superannuation schemes and the policy and practice currently in place in relation to funding public service pensions including contributions by employees to the annual estimates process. The company has no evidence that this funding policy will not continue to meet such sums in accordance with current practice.

Based on the above the company has accounted for the contributions as if it were a defined contribution scheme.
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Details of the pensions deducted from employees and the benefits paid to former employees during the year are as follows:

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In addition to the above the company operates defined contribution pension schemes (PRSA) in respect of employees not eligible to enter the above scheme. The assets of the PRSA schemes are held separately from those of the company in independently administered funds. The pension costs represent contributions payable by the company to the fund and amounted to €7,279. The amount outstanding at the year end was €Nil.
