About monitoring of compliance

The purpose of regulation in relation to designated centres is to safeguard vulnerable people of any age who are receiving residential care services. Regulation provides assurance to the public that people living in a designated centre are receiving a service that meets the requirements of quality standards which are underpinned by regulations. This process also seeks to ensure that the health, wellbeing and quality of life of people in residential care is promoted and protected. Regulation also has an important role in driving continuous improvement so that residents have better, safer lives.

The Health Information and Quality Authority has, among its functions under law, responsibility to regulate the quality of service provided in designated centres for children, dependent people and people with disabilities.

Regulation has two aspects:

▪ Registration: under Section 46(1) of the Health Act 2007 any person carrying on the business of a designated centre can only do so if the centre is registered under this Act and the person is its registered provider.
▪ Monitoring of compliance: the purpose of monitoring is to gather evidence on which to make judgments about the ongoing fitness of the registered provider and the provider’s compliance with the requirements and conditions of his/her registration.

Monitoring inspections take place to assess continuing compliance with the regulations and standards. They can be announced or unannounced, at any time of day or night, and take place:

▪ to monitor compliance with regulations and standards
▪ to carry out thematic inspections in respect of specific outcomes
▪ following a change in circumstances; for example, following a notification to the Health Information and Quality Authority’s Regulation Directorate that a provider has appointed a new person in charge ▪ arising from a number of events including information affecting the safety or wellbeing of residents.

The findings of all monitoring inspections are set out under a maximum of 18 outcome statements. The outcomes inspected against are dependent on the purpose of the inspection. In contrast, thematic inspections focus in detail on one or more outcomes. This focused approach facilitates services to continuously improve and achieve improved outcomes for residents of designated centres.
Compliance with the Health Act 2007 (Care and Welfare of Residents in Designated Centres for Older People) Regulations 2013, Health Act 2007 (Registration of Designated Centres for Older People) Regulations 2015 and the National Quality Standards for Residential Care Settings for Older People in Ireland.

This inspection report sets out the findings of a monitoring inspection, the purpose of which was to monitor compliance with specific outcomes as part of a thematic inspection. This monitoring inspection was un-announced and took place over 1 day(s).

The inspection took place over the following dates and times
From: 12 August 2014 10:30
To: 12 August 2014 15:30

The table below sets out the outcomes that were inspected against on this inspection.

Summary of findings from this inspection
This inspection report sets out the findings of a thematic inspection which focused on two specific outcomes, End of Life Care and Food and Nutrition and to follow up on actions from the previous report. In preparation for the thematic area's, providers attended an information seminar, received evidenced based guidance and undertook a self –assessment in relation to both outcomes. The inspector reviewed policies and analysed survey questionnaires which relatives submitted to the Authority prior to the inspection. The inspector met residents and staff and observed practice on inspection. Documents were also reviewed such as training records and care plans.

The centre provides long term, respite assessment and palliative care with 28 residents on the day of inspection. Residents spoken with were very complimentary of the food provided and the nutritional needs of residents were met to a high standard. Food was nutritious, varied and provided in sufficient quantities. Systems and processes were in place to ensure that residents did not experience poor nutrition or hydration. Residents’ nutritional needs were assessed and their preferences were facilitated. There was a good standard of nutritional assessment, monitoring and care planning with residents having good access to the ancillary health services. The Senior Community Dietician had visited and conducted training with staff the previous April on Nutrition in Older People.

The inspector found that practices were in place to ensure that residents received good care at end of life. There was a person centred approach to care which focused on meeting residents emotional and psycho-social needs as well as physical needs. Care was provided by appropriately trained staff. Questionnaires were received from relatives of deceased residents and discussions with family members showed that families were satisfied with the care given.

The inspector followed up on the progress of action plans under 6 outcomes from the previous inspection of 14th August 2013. Action plans under 5 outcomes were completed or substantially complete and but one area, premises, required further work in order to fully comply with regulatory requirements and standards. These and other matters are discussed further in the report and in the Action Plan at the end of the report.
Compliance with Section 41(1)(c) of the Health Act 2007 and with the Health Act 2007 (Care and Welfare of Residents in Designated Centres for Older People) Regulations 2013, Health Act 2007 (Registration of Designated Centres for Older People) Regulations 2015 and the National Quality Standards for Residential Care Settings for Older People in Ireland.

All staff spoken to by the inspector were knowledgeable about how to physically care for a resident at end of life and were aware of the procedures in place for the care of the body. There was an ongoing consultation to ensure that the procedures outlined provided appropriate guidance for staff. From training records reviewed, it was evident that staff were provided with training and guidance on end of life. The centre’s end of life policy was the Donegal HSE area document. The policy included that the resident’s wishes and choices concerning end-of-life care were discussed, recorded, implemented and reviewed on a regular basis with the resident. The centre facilitates admissions from the community to its palliative care service and supports same.

At the time of inspection one resident was receiving end of life care and a review of their case notes and discussion with staff showed that their needs as documented in their care plans were being met. Clear instructions and requests were recorded in plans and were being followed.

The responses received from relatives of deceased residents in relation to end of life were positive about their experience and interaction with the centre. They were complimentary of the care and support received from staff in the centre for both their loved one and themselves. The centre has close links with the community it serves and the local customs as regards death and dying were followed according to staff and from the responses to the questionnaires reviewed. Relatives were encouraged to remain with relatives approaching death. Religious and cultural practices were facilitated. Residents had the opportunity to attend religious services held in the centre and ministers from a range of religious denominations visited the centre to provide spiritual care. Funerals were facilitated from the centre and the local practice in relation to "waking" the deceased followed and was assisted by the centre. Residents' belongings are stored appropriately and returned whenever relatives wish to collect them.

A single room was available in the centre for those at end of life with adjacent facilities for relatives to stay. There was access to full palliative care services and 24 hour GP support.
