About monitoring of compliance

The purpose of regulation in relation to designated centres is to safeguard vulnerable people of any age who are receiving residential care services. Regulation provides assurance to the public that people living in a designated centre are receiving a service that meets the requirements of quality standards which are underpinned by regulations. This process also seeks to ensure that the health, wellbeing and quality of life of people in residential care is promoted and protected. Regulation also has an important role in driving continuous improvement so that residents have better, safer lives.

The Health Information and Quality Authority has, among its functions under law, responsibility to regulate the quality of service provided in designated centres for children, dependent people and people with disabilities.

Regulation has two aspects:

- Registration: under Section 46(1) of the Health Act 2007 any person carrying on the business of a designated centre can only do so if the centre is registered under this Act and the person is its registered provider.
- Monitoring of compliance: the purpose of monitoring is to gather evidence on which to make judgments about the ongoing fitness of the registered provider and the provider's compliance with the requirements and conditions of his/her registration.

Monitoring inspections take place to assess continuing compliance with the regulations and standards. They can be announced or unannounced, at any time of day or night, and take place:

- to monitor compliance with regulations and standards
- following a change in circumstances; for example, following a notification to the Health Information and Quality Authority's Regulation Directorate that a provider has appointed a new person in charge
- arising from a number of events including information affecting the safety or well-being of residents

The findings of all monitoring inspections are set out under a maximum of 18 outcome statements. The outcomes inspected against are dependent on the purpose of the inspection. Where a monitoring inspection is to inform a decision to register or to renew the registration of a designated centre, all 18 outcomes are inspected.

Compliance with the Health Act 2007 (Care and Support of Residents in Designated Centres for Persons (Children and Adults) with Disabilities) Regulations 2013, Health Act 2007 (Registration of Designated Centres for Persons (Children and Adults with Disabilities) Regulations 2013 and the National Standards for Residential Services for Children and Adults with Disabilities.

This inspection report sets out the findings of a monitoring inspection, the purpose of which was to monitor ongoing regulatory compliance. This monitoring inspection was un-announced and took place over 1 day(s).

The inspection took place over the following dates and times

From: 13 January 2015 09:00 To: 13 January 2015 18:30

The table below sets out the outcomes that were inspected against on this inspection.

Outcome 05: Social Care Needs
Outcome 07: Health and Safety and Risk Management
Outcome 08: Safeguarding and Safety
Outcome 12. Medication Management
Outcome 13: Statement of Purpose
Outcome 14: Governance and Management
Outcome 17: Workforce

Summary of findings from this inspection

This was the first inspection of this service and was carried out for the purposes of monitoring. Seven outcomes were reviewed as part of this inspection. The centre provided a respite service for boys and girls aged from 0-18 years with mild to profound intellectual disabilities, physical disability, communication needs and specific medical needs. The majority of children attended for overnight respite but some younger children attended for day respite. The centre was located in a bungalow in a suburb of Limerick and the provider was St. Vincent's Residential Services which came under the remit of the Daughters of Charity.

As part of the inspection, the clinical nurse manager 2 (CNM 2) who was the person in charge, the clinical nurse manager 1 (CNM 1), staff and four parents were met by inspectors. Documents such as personal plans, policies and procedures and staff files were reviewed by inspectors. Five children who attended the centre on the day of the inspection were observed by inspectors. Staff were observed being kind and supportive to the children and delivering a good standard of care to them. Parents told inspectors that they were happy with the service that their children received and were regularly updated by the staff team. The staff team were aware of what to do if they had concerns in relation to children's welfare and had passed on concerns to the Child and Family Agency. Recruitment processes were in line with the regulations. Staff identified that they received informal support from management. The CNM 1 and CNM2 were aware of their roles and responsibilities and staff were provided with good leadership within the centre. A six monthly review of quality and safety of the centre had been completed recently and actions were identified for follow up.

Risk management processes were not robust. Inspectors identified three hazards on the day of the inspection that had not been identified or risk assessed. Two of these risks were managed on the day. An immediate action plan was issued in relation to the third risk where the windows had not been risk assessed and there was a risk to children's safety. An appropriate action plan was provided to the Authority within the agreed timeframe.

The statement of purpose and function had a broad admissions criteria and the statement of purpose did not meet all of the requirements of the regulations. Children's needs were not adequately assessed, personal plans were not comprehensive and no goals set for children. There were deficits in the training that were provided to the staff team and not all staff had received mandatory training. No formal supervision or annual appraisals had been completed with staff and it was unclear how the CNM 2 formally reviewed staff's performance.

These and other deficits are outlined in this report.

Section 41(1)(c) of the Health Act 2007. Compliance with the Health Act 2007 (Care and Support of Residents in Designated Centres for Persons (Children And Adults) With Disabilities) Regulations 2013, Health Act 2007 (Registration of Designated Centres for Persons (Children and Adults with Disabilities) Regulations 2013 and the National Standards for Residential Services for Children and Adults with Disabilities.

Outcome 05: Social Care Needs

Each resident's wellbeing and welfare is maintained by a high standard of evidence-based care and support. Each resident has opportunities to participate in meaningful activities, appropriate to his or her interests and preferences. The arrangements to meet each resident's assessed needs are set out in an individualised personal plan that reflects his /her needs, interests and capacities. Personal plans are drawn up with the maximum participation of each resident. Residents are supported in transition between services and between childhood and adulthood.

Theme:

Effective Services

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):

This was the centre's first inspection by the Authority.

Findings:

Children's needs were not adequately assessed. As a result, personal plans were not comprehensive. Parents were involved in the development and review of personal plans, but the involvement of children where appropriate was not apparent. Children did not have a seamless transition between children and adult respite services.

Each resident's health, personal and social care and support needs were not fully assessed. Inspectors found that there was a social work assessment on file, which assessed the need for respite prior to the child's admission, but it was not a comprehensive holistic assessment of children's needs. Some professional reports were held on children's files such as psychological reports. However, the absence of comprehensive, updated assessments meant that all of the young people's needs had not been assessed to inform their personal plan. The lack of a comprehensive assessment also impacted on the staff teams ability to meet the needs of children on a consistent basis.

Personal plans were in place for each resident, but they were not comprehensive. Inspectors reviewed a sample of three personal plans and found that some sections of personal plans were incomplete or had insufficient information in relation to specific needs of children. For example, inspectors found that the section about 'me and my life, special events' was not completed in some personal plans, while in another plan no special event was documented since 2012. A new template for personal plans had recently been introduced but inspectors found that the template was not significantly different to the original template. Inspectors reviewed one of the new templates which had been recently completed. The new template of personal plans had included some pictures, a section on a social assessment, and had a section on social development planning.

No child friendly copies of personal plans were available, and copies of personal plans had not been provided to parents or guardians. Therefore, parents may not been aware of all aspects of their child's personal plan. The level of ability of children who attended the service varied but it was not clear that children were consulted where appropriate. No specific goals were identified in personal plans, so it was unclear how staff monitored children's outcomes.

Reviews of personal plans had not focused on the effectiveness of the resident's personal plan. Personal plans were reviewed annually or more often if required. However, inspectors reviewed a sample of minutes of respite review meetings and found that there was a focus on medical needs but not on children's social needs. The parents of children were consulted and involved in the reviews. No future goals were identified for the child in the sample of review meetings that were reviewed by inspectors. Therefore, it was not clear that the review meetings were an effective forum where there were clear, achievable plans put in place for the year ahead.

Children's preparation for adulthood was not strongly evident in personal plans. There was evidence that children had opportunities to develop their social skills through their participation in activities in the community and staff told inspectors that children experienced going shopping. However, it was not evident from personal plans how children's life skills were developed with a view to preparation for adulthood.

There were delays in children transitioning to adult services, and there were no definite plans in place in relation to transitions. The CNM2 told inspectors that it was only since Christmas that the service had begun to look at transitions. He/she outlined that children were discussed at the respite committee and that there were no documents in the centre to reflect these transitions. Four children were identified to be turning 17 years during 2015. Inspectors were informed by the CNM2 that there was a waiting list within adult services for respite, but care plans were transferred to adult services, and young people usually had two visits to the adult service prior to transferring to adult services. However, there was no evidence on children's files in relation to this level of planning of transitions and it was not clear that children were supported by staff in regard to moving from the service to adult services.

Outcome 07: Health and Safety and Risk Management

The health and safety of residents, visitors and staff is promoted and protected.

Theme:

Effective Services

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):

This was the centre's first inspection by the Authority.

Findings:

The health and safety of the young people, visitors and staff was not adequately promoted. Although there were policies and procedures in place in regard to health and safety and some fire precaution measures in place, the inspectors identified a number of hazards and risks that had not been assessed during the inspection. This indicated that the risk management systems in place were not adequate.

The risk management system was not effective and did not lead to all risks being identified, reduced or eliminated. The centre had an organisational health and safety statement dated July 2014 with supporting documentation on local hazards and risks. The inspectors observed a number of safety measures which had been put in place such as chemicals being locked away. However, this assessment had not identified a number of other hazards and risks that inspectors identified on the day of the inspection such as the safety risk of open windows to children had not been risk assessed. An immediate action plan was issued following the inspection as there had been no risk assessment of the windows in the centre. The provider responded with an appropriate action plan within the agreed time frame. The centre risk assessed the situation and window restrictors were fitted to windows in the centre.

In addition to the immediate risk, inspectors found two other additional risks. Firstly, there was a risk that children could ingest personal protective equipment, as they were stored within reachable height for some children in the kitchen and bathroom. Secondly, there was a risk of injury to children as there were car seats stored in the entrance area. These risks were appropriately mitigated against during the course of the inspection as the level of personal protective equipment was placed out of the reach of children and the car seats were moved.

The centre had risk assessments completed on some risks such as fire, infection, food hygiene, hot water, transportation of service users, lone working, slips and trips and aggressive behaviour. The risk was identified, the impact, the existing controls, additional control measures, persons responsible for action, a due date for completed action and a review date.

The centre had an organisational risk policy that was not in line with all the requirements of Regulation 26. The policy outlined the systems in place for hazard identification, assessment of risk, the measures and actions in place to control the risks identified. The measures and actions in place to control the unexpected absence of a child, accidental injury to residents, visitors or staff, aggression and violence and self-harm were referenced but not adequately described. The policy referenced relevant policies that related to risk such as behaviour management policies, child protection and missing persons policy. However, it did not outline the arrangements for the investigation and learning from serious incidents or adverse events involving residents.

There were systems in place to record incidents and serious events. However it was not clear how any changes were made to practice as a result of incident reports. Incidents were identified, risk rated and notified to management. The incident forms reviewed related to behavioural incidents and it was not clear that any changes were made as a result of these reported events. There had been no adverse incidents in the centre in 2014.

Procedures in relation to safe practices in areas such as food safety, manual handling, infection control, cleaning schedules, first aid and disability awareness were provided to staff. Inspectors examined a selection of staff training records and these reflected that the majority of staff had completed training in food safety and infection control. Two staff members had not received updated training in manual handling so there was a risk that they could potentially injure themselves when lifting items within the centre. Additional training had been provided for staff in the control of substances hazardous to health, and there was guidance in the centre in relation to products such as detergents which could be hazardous to young people and staff.

There were systems in place in relation to protection against infection, but staff had not received training in hand hygiene. Inspectors found that the centre was clean. A daily, three monthly and six monthly cleaning schedule was in place for areas internally and external to the centre. An audit of hygiene in the centre was completed in 2014 and many of the recommendations that were made were implemented such as the installation of hand lotion dispensers and the colour coded systems for cleaning and food preparation. Pedal operated bins were in use throughout the centre. The temperatures of fridges and freezers were checked daily. Personal protective equipment such as gloves and aprons were available for staff. There was extensive guidance available in the centre in relation to specific diseases and hand hygiene. The CNM 2 told inspectors that hand washing was an issue, that it was recommended in the hygiene audit that an additional hand washing sink was made available to staff, but due to the size of the building that it was not possible to implement this recommendation. However, hand gels were available for staff use throughout the centre. Staff had not received hand hygiene training. Therefore, there was a risk that staff may not be aware of best practices in hand hygiene. There were arrangements in place for clinical waste to be brought to the main campus of St. Vincent's centre for disposal.

There were some fire safety precautions in place but improvements were required. Each child had an individual fire risk assessment which outlined their mobility status, gave direction regarding non-ambulant children, and recorded the level of assistance that children required if they had to be evacuated. However, it did not outline the contingency in place if children could not return to the centre. There were good child friendly directions on the steps to take in the event of a fire on display in the centre. Suitable fire fighting equipment was available such as fire blankets and fire extinguishers, and these had been serviced in February 2014. The fire alarm and emergency lights were serviced in April 2014, which did not meet the requirement of quarterly servicing. Daily checks were completed of the fire systems panel and fire door and weekly checks were completed of the emergency lighting. Monthly checks reviewed the means of escape, smoke alarms, specific rooms of the house and fire fighting equipment. The centre's statement of purpose outlined that monthly fire drills took place. However, there were only two records of fire drills in June and October 2014. One of these fire drills only involved staff members and 4 children in total had experienced a fire drill. Therefore, there was a risk that the majority of children may not know what to do in the event of a fire.

Non Compliant - Major

Outcome 08: Safeguarding and Safety

Measures to protect residents being harmed or suffering abuse are in place and appropriate action is taken in response to allegations, disclosures or suspected abuse. Residents are assisted and supported to develop the knowledge, self-awareness, understanding and skills needed for self-care and protection. Residents are provided with emotional, behavioural and therapeutic support that promotes a positive approach to behaviour that challenges. A restraint-free environment is promoted.

Theme:

Safe Services

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):

This was the centre's first inspection by the Authority.

Findings:

There were some measures in place to safeguard children, but the management of behaviour required further development. Staff had a good awareness of their responsibilities in safeguarding children and were warm and respectful in their interactions with children. However, not all staff had been trained in Children First Guidance for the Protection and Welfare of Children (2011) or in the management of behaviours. There was a policy in place for the provision of behavioural support, but the policy was not fully adhered to by staff. The assessment and review of restrictive practices was not robust and it was not evident that the least restrictive practice was considered at all times.

There were some measures in place to keep children safe and protect them from abuse. Inspectors observed staff singing and playing with children and were respectful in all their interactions. The majority of staff had received training in 'Abuse Guidelines', which the CNM 1 described as training on the organisation's policy for adults and children, which incorporated Children First (2011). Therefore, the majority of staff had not received specific training in Children First Guidance for the Protection and Welfare of Children (2011). The CNM 2 had not received training in Children First (2011), but inspectors found that he/she had good knowledge of what to do in the event of suspected abuse.

Staff members knew what abuse was and knew what to do in the event of an allegation, suspicion or disclosure of abuse. Child welfare concerns were reported to the Child and Family Agency and staff participated in related meetings such as child protection conferences. However, staff had not reported the concerns using the standard report form as is a requirement of the organisation's policy and also of Children First (2011), therefore this may have been due to the lack of staff training in this area. Staff on duty knew that the designated liaison officer was the services manager. However, the organisation's child protection policy had not been updated with the details of the designated liaison officer. Therefore, this key information may not have been available to staff.

The centre had a comprehensive policy in relation to the provision of intimate care in the centre, but intimate care plans were not sufficiently detailed for staff to provide consistent care to children. Inspectors found that it was emphasised in intimate care plans that staff needed to tell children what they were going to do, prior to completing intimate care on the children. Staff had good knowledge of the organisation's policy on intimate care. Inspectors observed that staff members preserved the dignity of children when assisting children with intimate care by ensuring that the door of the bathroom or bedroom were closed. Inspectors reviewed personal plans and found that there was insufficient detail recorded and no consents were in place in regard to the provision of personal care. For example, it recorded that children required full assistance in regard to their intimate care but no specific guidance was provided for staff on providing the care within the plan. Therefore, staff may have been inconsistent in the way in which they provided intimate care to children.

The majority of children in the centre did not present with behaviour that challenged but no behavioural plans were in place for children who had. The CNM1 told inspectors that one child had behaviour that challenged and had a behaviour support plan in place. However, this file was reviewed by inspectors, and there was no behaviour support plan on file. The last risk assessment in regard to the child's behaviour on file was 15 months old. Therefore, the staff had no up to date guidance to support them in working with the child on the behaviour that challenged. A referral to psychology services was completed, but there was no feedback documented on the file. However, it was not clear that the child's behavioural needs had been assessed on an ongoing basis and appropriate plans were put in place. The child was admitted on his/her own to the centre for respite and inspectors were told that this was due to the the challenges of managing the child's behaviour. However, the practice of the child being admitted on his/her own to the centre was not regularly reviewed and it was unclear how the CNM 2 made decisions in relation to this practice.

The majority of staff had been trained in behaviour management, but staff told inspectors that this training was general training which applied to both adults and children. Therefore, staff may not be aware of best practice in dealing with the management of children's behaviour.

Restrictive practices used in the centre were identified as such by staff. Restrictive practices such as the use of a harness in the car, visual monitoring, locking of internal doors and windows were used in the centre.

The approval and review process for restrictive practices was not robust and it was not evident that the least restrictive practice was always in place. Risk assessments in regard to the use of restrictive practices were not in place for all restrictive practices. Inspectors found one assessment which risk assessed the use of bed rails which was not sufficiently detailed. Nine children's restrictive practices were approved by a multi-disciplinary team but the process of approval was unclear from documents reviewed by inspectors. The use of restrictive practices for other children had been referred to two other multi-disciplinary teams for approval. Therefore, all restrictive practice in use in the centre had not been approved. This meant that restrictive measures may have been applied routinely by staff rather than on a therapeutic or risk based basis. The CNM1 told inspectors that s/he had met with multi-disciplinary teams and had provided information on restrictive practices to them. There was little evidence in the files reviewed that alternative measures or the least restrictive measure, for the shortest duration had been considered, but the CNM 1 told inspectors that it was considered but not documented. A parent told inspectors that they had received information regarding restrictive practices from the CNM1 and the child's multi-disciplinary team.

Non Compliant - Moderate

Outcome 12. Medication Management

Each resident is protected by the designated centres policies and procedures for medication management.

Theme:

Health and Development

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):

This was the centre's first inspection by the Authority.

Findings:

There were improvements required in the administration and management of medication. Medication was safety stored, and there were good procedures in place in relation to receiving medication into the centre. Staff had not received training on the safe administration of medication and some medication errors had occurred.

The centre followed an organisational medication policy which was reviewed in October 2014 and met the requirements of the regulations. The policy outlined the process in relation to ordering, storage, administration, recording of emergency prescriptions, drug errors and controlled drugs.

Medication was received from parents on each admission to the centre. Inspectors observed two staff members receiving a child's medication. Staff recorded the child's name, the medication and quantity of the medication that came into the service and this was completed again when the child was leaving respite. Staff checked the medications against the prescription sheet. Each child's medication was stored in a separate section in a locked medication cabinet and a locked fridge was also used if required. Appropriate locked storage facilities were in place for controlled medication. The original labels from the pharmacy were not on all medications received by staff. The CNM1 told inspectors that when children left the respite centre and were going to school prior to going home that their medication was given to the bus escort who was responsible for handing it to the school nurse. There was no discontinued medication stored in the medication cabinet.

There was a controlled drugs register in place, but staff did not consistently adhere to the requirements of the policy. Controlled drugs were monitored at the end of each shift, and also upon the child's admission and discharge to respite as per the policy. However, two members of staff did not consistently sign the drugs register. The CNM1 explained to inspectors that sometimes parents left medication into the centre during the day, and two members of staff were not always on duty, therefore the staff were unable to comply with the requirement of two staff signing in controlled medication.

The centre had prescription sheets but the practice of replacing prescriptions sheets on a six monthly basis carried some risk. All prescription sheets sampled contained the young person's photograph, their date of birth, general practitioner's name (GP's), name of medication, dose, route of and time of administration. A doctor's (GP's) signature was in place for each medication. As required medications (PRN) outlined the maximum dosage.

Administration sheets identified the medications which were prescribed on the prescription sheet. There was a signature sheet in place, so it was possible to track what staff had administered medication. A space was available for staff to record if a child refused or withheld medication. No children had been assessed as being capable of managing their own medication at the time of the inspection.

A number of drug errors had occurred due to parents/guardians not communicating changes in medication to staff. Prescription sheets for children were completed on a six monthly basis by the child's GP, and a copy of the child's prescription which was valid for six months was also held on file. Staff were dependent on family members updating them if there were any changes to medication during the six month period. There were various communication systems in place with families, such as some parents used communication books to pass updates to the staff team, other parents spoke directly to staff either by telephone or by calling into the centre, but there was always a risk that in error updated information may not be passed on.

The centre had systems in place to record and monitor drug errors, but it was not clear how learnings were implemented in practice. Inspectors reviewed records of drug errors from 2014. Five drug errors were reviewed by inspectors and incident forms were completed on each error. Errors were recorded in relation to a child being administered the incorrect dosage of medication, discrepancies between the prescription sheet and actual prescription, medication being administered but not documented and insufficient medication being provided by a family member and staff being unable to source the medication. Some of the medication errors related directly to staff not following the centre's policies on medication management and therefore the lack of training in the safe administration of medication may have contributed to a small number of drug errors. Inspectors found that staff followed the policy in regard to medication errors and contacted the CNM3 on call initially who provided direction for staff. The CNM2 told inspectors that s/he had reviewed the drug errors and that there were no patterns. Medication errors were reviewed by a central committee. However, it was not evident what feedback was provided to the management of the centre and if any changes were made as a result of the analysis of the drug errors. The CNM2 told inspectors that they were developing local guidance in relation to medication audits.

All medication was administered by nursing staff, but staff had not received up to date training. The CNM1 and CNM2 had both received training in medication management for persons in charge during 2014, but no other members of staff had received updated training. No competency assessments had been completed recently with nursing staff. The CNM2 told inspectors that they were planning to provide medication management training for staff. Therefore, staff may not have been up to date in the best practice of administration of medication.

Judgment:

Non Compliant - Moderate

Outcome 13: Statement of Purpose

There is a written statement of purpose that accurately describes the service provided in the centre. The services and facilities outlined in the Statement of Purpose, and the manner in which care is provided, reflect the diverse needs of residents.

Theme:

Leadership, Governance and Management

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):

This was the centre's first inspection by the Authority.

Findings:

The centre had a statement of purpose which was completed in July 2014. However, it did not meet all of the requirements of Regulation 3.

The statement of purpose adequately outlined the facilities for privacy and dignity, the organisational structure, staffing levels and the arrangements for visiting children during respite. It described that the service provided respite to both males and females.

The Statement of purpose was very broad in its criteria for the provision of respite, the centre provided respite care for children under the age of 18 years of age. It outlined that the centre provided care for children with an intellectual disability and who also may have physical disability, communication difficulties, medical needs, epilepsy and social needs. However, it was unclear that staff had access to continuous professional development in regard to the range of children's needs that the centred provided respite to.

The statement of purpose did not adequately describe the following;

- the number of children who could avail of respite at any one time
- the arrangements made for consultation with respite users
- arrangements for children to attend school during respite
- the arrangements for the annual review of personal plans
- the complaints procedures and the complaints officer was not named.

However, the statement of purpose did not meet the requirements of regulation three as there were a number of omissions. For example, the criteria for emergency admissions was not outlined. Other omissions were as follows:

- how children would be facilitated to attend religious services
- details of specific therapeutic techniques used or their supervision
- no dimensions were included on the floor plan
- contingency arrangements were not described in the event of a fire or evacuation of the centre
- arrangements for day care.

The statement of purpose was on display in the front hall of the centre for staff and parents to view but it was not in a format that was accessible to residents. Children and families had not received copies of the statement of purpose.

Judgment:

Non Compliant - Moderate

Outcome 14: Governance and Management

The quality of care and experience of the residents are monitored and developed on an ongoing basis. Effective management systems are in place that support and promote the delivery of safe, quality care services. There is a clearly defined management structure that identifies the lines of authority and accountability. The centre is managed by a suitably qualified, skilled and experienced person with authority, accountability and responsibility for the provision of the service.

Theme:

Leadership, Governance and Management

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):

This was the centre's first inspection by the Authority.

Findings:

There was a clearly defined management structure and some systems in place to ensure the centre operated safely but these were not always effective. This included risk management and quality assurance mechanisms which had not identified the significant risk that this inspection found. The CNM 2 who was the person in charge provided good leadership to the staff team.

There was a clearly defined management structure which identified the lines of authority and accountability in the centre. A clinical nurse manager 2 held the position of person in charge (PIC) for this unit and another unit. A clinical nurse manager 1 deputised for the CNM2 in his/her absence. All staff reported to the CNM 2 and were clear about the reporting relationships. The CNM 2 reported to a CNM3 who in turn reported to the assistant director of nursing, who reported to the director of nursing and the services manager. Staff on duty were aware of their roles and responsibilities and who they reported to.

The CNM2 was a suitably qualified and experienced manager, who was appointed to the position in May 2014. S/he held a degree in nursing, had completed management training and completed a range of continuous development courses. The CNM2 had a good knowledge of children attending the centre. The working hours of the CNM 2 was equally divided between the two centres that s/he managed. The CNM 2 told the inspector that s/he met the CNM 3 formally on a monthly basis. Inspectors found from reviewing the minutes of these meetings that issues relating to the children's respite service were discussed and specific actions were identified. However, timescales for actions were not recorded and items discussed at the previous meetings were not always reviewed at the next meetings. Therefore, it was unclear how the CNM2 was held to account by the CNM 3.

There were management systems in place but they were not sufficiently robust. The CNM 2 had good communications systems in place. Staff, the CNM1 and CNM 2 told inspectors that informal discussions took place on a daily basis in regard to specific children and the service. Monthly team meetings took place, and a wide range of issues were discussed such as children, training, health and safety, occupancy of the respite house, practice guidelines and admissions and discharges. There was a system in place where policies, procedures or specific issues were focused on each week by the staff group. For example, on the week of the inspection infection control was focused on by the staff team. In addition, inspectors observed that previous inspection reports completed by the Authority on other children's disability centres were available for staff to read within the centre. An on call system was in place out of hours, and a CNM 3 was available to staff out of hours. Staff members outlined that the CNM2 was accessible and popped into the centre on days when he/she was rostered to work in the other centre. While the CNM2 had a good knowledge of the regulations, not all the requirements of the regulations were implemented.

Other management systems in place included policies and procedures which were available to staff in the centre. These were in place to guide staff but there was no system in place to monitor their implementation. Risk management systems were not robust as they had not identified the risk identified by inspectors within the centre. The CNM 2 also attended a respite committee which reviewed the occupancy rates of the respite centre to ensure that the service provided an efficient service to children. Parents told inspectors that they had experienced no cancellations of respite since May 2014.

There was some monitoring of the overall quality of the service provided to children and their outcomes, but there were no system of regular ongoing audits in place. The CNM 2 and other nominated staff members had undertaken some random audits of the service, for example in regard to the the transfer of information between staff coming on duty and staff ending their shift, infection control and meal times and an analysis of complaints had been completed for 2013. However, a systems of regular audit was not in place and issues such as the quality of children's personal plans had not been audited. A six monthly unannounced visit was completed by the Quality and Risk Officer for the organisation in December 2014 and the service was reviewed under the 18 outcomes of the standards. The report highlighted specific deficits and made recommendations for further actions. Plans were in place to address the identified deficits.

Staff were not formally performance managed. There was a system of staff appraisal in place within the organisation but no staff had an up to date appraisal. The CNM 2 told inspectors that s/he had required a period of time to get to know staff prior to completing appraisals, but planned that appraisals would be completed by May 2015.

There were no formal arrangements in place to ensure that staff exercised their personal and professional responsibility for the quality and safety of the services that they are delivering, but inspectors found evidence that staff raised concerns in relation to the quality of the service. There was no formal protected disclosures policy in place, but inspectors found evidence that staff raised specific concerns with the CNM 2 in regard to a practice issue, the matter was followed up by the CNM 2 and an outcome was reached. Staff members told inspectors that they would raise concerns with the management or senior management of the organisation if they had concerns regarding the safety or quality of care provided to children.

The centre had a service level agreement with the Health Service agreement for 2014, but discussions were taking place in regard to 2015 service level agreement.

Judgment:

Non Compliant - Moderate

Outcome 17: Workforce

There are appropriate staff numbers and skill mix to meet the assessed needs of residents and the safe delivery of services. Residents receive continuity of care. Staff have up-to-date mandatory training and access to education and training to meet the needs of residents. All staff and volunteers are supervised on an appropriate basis, and recruited, selected and vetted in accordance with best recruitment practice.

Theme:

Responsive Workforce

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):

This was the centre's first inspection by the Authority.

Findings:

There were adequate recruitment processes in place for staff employed by the organisation. Staff had a good awareness of organisational policies and of the Regulations and Standards. Sufficient staff with appropriate qualifications and experience worked in the centre. However, no training needs analysis had been completed to identify the continuous professional development training that staff required. There were gaps in the education and training that was provided to staff and not all staff had mandatory training.

Recruitment processes were adequate. A sample of staff files were reviewed and inspectors found all the requirements of schedule 2 were in place. Staff files contained the names, address, dates of birth, identification, photograph of staff members, qualifications and An Garda Síochána vetting. However, there was no system in place of updating staff vetting. Professional registration certificates were in place up to December 2014 and staff had yet to submit their updated certificates for 2015. Agency staff were used by the centre but no service level agreement was in place with the specific agency. The Acting Services Manager told inspectors that there was no system in place to view the qualifications of agency staff. The CNM 2 told inspectors that the same agency staff were used in order to have continuity. There were no volunteers working within the centre.

There was sufficient staff with the right qualifications and experience to meet the assessed needs of residents at all times. The service was staffed by nursing staff who held a qualification in intellectual disability nursing or children's nursing, and one health care assistant was on the staff team. Additional agency health care assistant staff were rostered if required. Two members of household staff were on the roster and student nurses also worked in the centre. Many of the children who attended the centre had significant medical needs and it was appropriate that nursing staff were employed in the centre, this was in line with the centre's statement of purpose. Inspectors observed staff interaction with children and found them to be respectful and timely in their provision of care to children.

Copies of the actual and amended rota were held in the centre. The rota was difficult to follow, the 24 hour clock was not used. The system in place to indicate a sleepover was not always clear as sometimes it was marked by s/o to indicate a sleepover, and on other occasions a number was included in an untitled box at the end of the week. Therefore, there was not consistency in how sleepover were indicated on the rota and new or agency staff may find it difficult to follow.

There were sufficient staff rostered on duty on the day of the inspection. The rostering of staff during the day was dependant on the needs of the children on respite and two or three members of staff worked during the day. A nurse was rostered on waking night duty from 20.00 until 08.15, and a second member of staff was in the centre on sleep over so there were sufficient staff in place to care for children at night time.

There were gaps in the provision of training to staff and not all staff had received mandatory training. No training needs analysis had been completed. This meant that the training provided to staff did not fully reflect the training and development needs of the staff team as it was not informed by the needs of the young people attending the service. Two staff members had not up to date fire training or manual handling but training in these areas were scheduled for staff in February 2015. The training provided to staff on behaviour that challenged had not been specific to managing children's behaviour. This training was key in order that staff had the right skills to effectively manage children. Additional training had been provided to some staff in areas such as infection prevention and control, food safety and person centred planning.

No formal supervision was provided for staff and no supervision policy was in place. Staff spoke of receiving good informal guidance from the CNM 2 if required. However, staff did not have formal support by the manager or an opportunity for the manager to formally identify good practice or areas which required improvement.

Staff had a good awareness of the organisation's policies and procedures, and of the relevant legislation, Regulations and Standards. Copies of the regulations and standards were available for staff in the centre. Inspectors found from interviews with staff members that staff had a good knowledge of the Regulations and Standards.

Judgment:
Non Compliant - Moderate
